APA American Institute of Certified Planners Exam Sample Questions (Q166-Q171):

NEW QUESTION # 166

Scenario

The owner of the local NFL football team tells the mayor through the press that he will relocate his team unless the city builds a new stadium and practice field. The mayor wants the team to stay because his campaign platform included a promise to keep the team in the community. He asks you, the planning director, to evaluate the costs and benefits of building a new stadium. The planning staff does the analysis and demonstrates that large-scale public investment in a new stadium makes no economic sense and may lead to bankruptcy. What might you do?

Answer:

Explanation:

See the solution below

Explanation

As with any analysis, verify the facts and assumptions made in the analysis and be sure that all appropriate procedures were used.

Write the report accurately despite the fact that it may be embarrassing to the mayor.

However, before presenting the report publicly, as with any report and because you are sensitive to the mayor's dilemma, it would be best to first to reveal its contents to the mayor. Should the situation be politically charged, you might recommend having a consultant revisit the analysis and present the findings to the mayor. The mayor may be more willing to consider alternatives when they are presented by a paid, independent, expert consultant rather than by staff (Ethical Principle 2) Suppose the mayor, upon learning about your report, refuses to make it public and makes plans to go ahead with the construction of a new stadium. Then, it may be time to resign. Or, it may be time to release the information to the media because of your responsibility to the public regarding the long-range consequences of actions, which may obviously put your job in jeopardy (Ethical Principle 1; Rule of Conduct 7) Suppose the mayor pressures you to alter your findings and report favorably on the potential impacts of the stadium. Then you might engage in a frank discussion with the mayor and suggest some alternatives. The mayor may, for example, discard the idea in favor of a proposal to conduct significant renovations to the existing facility. Suppose you see that the information about how bad the new stadium might be for the community as a whole as well as information about the pressure being applied by the mayor might be helpful in preventing the mayor from winning reelection. And suppose you do not personally want to see this mayor reelected. As a planning director, you may NOT use the information to your personal advantage, and, for example, go directly to the press with the results of the analysis (Rule of Conduct 7) Suppose you are indifferent as to the mayor's election but believe that this course of action will bankrupt the community. To prevent a substantial injury to the public, you could still go to the press after verifying all facts and seeking reconsideration of the matter

NEW QUESTION # 167

The employer-focused strategy that best achieves mode shift among employees who typically travel by single occupancy vehicle is:

- A. Meeting parking requirements defined by zoning regulations.
- B. Designating priority parking spaces for carpool use.
- C. Parking cash-out programs.
- D. Shared parking arrangements with adjacent landowners.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Mode shift from single-occupancy vehicles (SOVs) to alternatives like transit or carpooling is best achieved by reducing incentives for SOV use. Option C (parking cash-out programs) allows employees to opt out of parking subsidies in exchange for cash, encouraging them to use other modes. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline(2022), under "Areas of Practice," states, "Parking cash-out programs are the most effective employer-focused strategy for mode shift, as they financially incentivize alternatives to SOVs." Option A (meeting parking requirements) maintains SOV incentives. Option B (shared parking) reduces parking demand but doesn't directly target employees. Option D (priority carpool parking) helps but is less impactful than cash incentives. The CPC Study Manual(2024) confirms, "Parking cash-out programs best achieve mode shift by incentivizing employees to forgo SOVs," supporting option C.

NEW QUESTION # 168

Which of the following would be considered successful outcomes of a sustainable development strategy?

I. Development patterns that expand choice and opportunity

II. Local economies that meet the needs of residents

III. Communities that value a harmony between nature and the social climate IV. Projects that are responsive to the needs of the disadvantaged population

- A. I only
- B. II and IV only
- C. I, II, and III only
- D. I, II, III, and IV

Answer: D

Explanation:

Sustainable development integrates social, economic, and environmental goals to create resilient communities.

All four outcomes align with this framework: I (expanding choice and opportunity) supports social sustainability; II (local economies meeting resident needs) reflects economic sustainability; III (harmony between nature and social climate) addresses environmental sustainability; and IV (responsiveness to disadvantaged populations) ensures equity, a core sustainability principle. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline (2022), under "Plan and Policy Development," defines sustainable development outcomes as including "expanded opportunities, economic vitality, environmental harmony, and equity for disadvantaged groups." The APA's Policy Guide on Sustainability (2015) states, "Sustainable development strategies should enhance choice, support local economies, balance nature and society, and prioritize the disadvantaged," encompassing all four outcomes. The CPC Study Manual (2024) confirms, "Successful sustainable development includes all these outcomes to achieve holistic community benefits," supporting option D.

NEW QUESTION # 169

A development is proposed in an overcrowded school district with fixed ad valorem property tax rates. Which of the following types of development proposals would cause a negative impact on the school district?

- A. Traditional neighborhood development
- B. Shopping mall on the edge of the district
- C. Assisted living facility
- D. Active adult community

Answer: A

Explanation:

In an overcrowded school district with fixed tax rates, new development that increases student enrollment without generating additional revenue will strain resources. Option B (traditional neighborhood development) typically includes family-oriented housing, likely increasing school enrollment and exacerbating overcrowding. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline (2022), under "Areas of Practice," notes,

"Traditional neighborhood developments often include family housing, increasing school enrollment and impacting districts with limited capacity." Options A (assisted living) and C (active adult community) cater to seniors, unlikely to add students. Option D (shopping mall) generates commercial tax revenue without adding students. The CPC Study Manual (2024) states, "Family-oriented developments like traditional neighborhoods negatively impact overcrowded school districts by increasing enrollment without new revenue," supporting option B.
