Cisco Designing and Implementing Secure Cloud Access for Users and Endpoints Sample Questions (Q49-Q54):

NEW QUESTION # 49

Refer to the exhibit. An engineer must create a policy in Cisco Secure Firewall Management Center to prevent restricted users from being able to browse any business or mobile phone shopping websites. The indicated policy was applied; however, the restricted users still can browse on the mobile phone shopping websites during business hours. What should be done to meet the requirement?

- A. Set Time Range for rule 4 of Access Controlled Groups to All.
- B. Move rule 4 Access Controlled Groups to the top.
- C. Set Dest Zones to Business Mobile Phones Shopping.
- D. Set Dest Networks to Business Mobile Phones Shopping.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Cisco Secure Firewall Management Center (FMC), access control policies are processed top-down- meaning the first matching rule is applied, and the remaining are ignored. Based on the exhibit, Rule 4 (Access Controlled Groups) is likely being shadowed by a broader rule above it that permits web traffic. To ensure restricted users are denied access to mobile phone shopping categories, Rule 4 must be moved to the top of the rule hierarchy.

Cisco SCAZT (Section 5: Visibility and Assurance, Pages 94-97) describes best practices for rule ordering and inspection logic. Moving the specific block rule (Rule 4) higher ensures it's enforced before general allow rules are evaluated.

NEW QUESTION # 53

Refer to the exhibit. An engineer must analyze the Cisco Secure Cloud Analytics report. What is occurring?

- A. Persistent remote-control connections
- B. Memory exhaustion attempt toward port 22
- C. Distributed DDoS attack
- D. Geographically unusual remote access

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Secure Cloud Analytics alert log shows multiple SSH connections on port 22 from diverse and geographically distributed IP addresses targeting a single GCP instance (www-gcp-east-4c). According to the Cloud Analytics alert logic described in SCAZT (Section 6: Threat Response, Pages 113-116), this behavior indicates "Geographically Unusual Remote Access." It typically triggers when a host receives connections from countries not normally associated with the network's usage profile. This is often linked to reconnaissance or brute-force SSH attempts.
