NEW QUESTION # 37

You are considering disabling the data rates of 1, 2, 5.5 and 11 in the 2.4 GHz band. What advantage might this provide to the networks operating in this band?

- A. Frames that must be transmitted at the lowest common data rate can be transmitted at higher data rates after the change
- B. The antennas will be able to zero in on the higher data rates better
- C. The RF signals will not travel as far
- D. The range of the PHY preamble and header will be reduced

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 38

What is used to respond with an uplink transmission to an MU-RTS trigger frame in the 802.11ax PHY?

- A. HE TB PPDU
- B. VHT PPDU
- C. HE MU PPDU
- D. HE SU PPDU

Answer: A

Explanation:

An HE TB PPDU (High Efficiency Trigger-Based Packet Data Unit) is used to respond with an uplink transmission to an MU-RTS trigger frame in the 802.11ax PHY (Physical Layer). An MU-RTS trigger frame is a frame that initiates a multi-user transmission opportunity (MU-TXOP) by requesting multiple stations (STAs) to send clear-to-send (CTS) frames on different spatial streams or resource units (RUs). An HE TB PPDU is a frame that contains data from multiple STAs that have been allocated RUs by an MU-RTS trigger frame or another type of trigger frame. An HE SU PPDU (High Efficiency Single User Packet Data Unit) is a frame that contains data from a single STA using all available spatial streams or RUs. An HE MU PPDU (High Efficiency Multi User Packet Data Unit) is a frame that contains data from multiple STAs using different spatial streams or RUs without being triggered by another frame. A VHT PPDU (Very High Throughput Packet Data Unit) is a frame that uses the 802.11ac PHY and does not support multi-user transmissions.

NEW QUESTION # 39

Which one of the following is required for Wi-Fi integration in laptop-based Spectrum Analyzer software in addition to the spectrum analysis adapter?

- A. An 802.11 wireless adaptor
- B. A directional antenna
- C. A firmware upgrade for the spectrum analysis adapter
- D. SNMP read credentials to the WLAN controller or APs

Answer: A

Explanation:

An 802.11 wireless adaptor is required for Wi-Fi integration in laptop-based spectrum analyzer software in addition to the spectrum analysis adapter. The spectrum analysis adapter is a hardware device that captures the RF signals in the wireless environment and sends them to the spectrum analyzer software for analysis and display. The 802.11 wireless adaptor is a hardware device that connects the laptop to the wireless network and allows the spectrum analyzer software to correlate the RF data with the Wi-Fi data, such as SSID, channel, and BSSID. This enables the spectrum analyzer software to provide more context and insight into the spectrum activity and its impact on the Wi-Fi network. A firmware upgrade for the spectrum analysis adapter is not required for Wi-Fi integration, but it may be needed to fix bugs or add features to the device. A directional antenna is an antenna that focuses the RF energy in a specific direction and has a high gain and a narrow beamwidth. A directional antenna can be used with a spectrum analysis adapter to pinpoint the location or source of interference or noise in the wireless environment, but it is not required for Wi-Fi integration. SNMP read credentials to the WLAN controller or APs are not required for Wi-Fi integration, but they may be useful for obtaining additional information about the wireless network configuration and performance from the network devices.
