Answer: D

Explanation:

The PI is responsible for ensuring that the source data is accurately recorded in the electronic Case Report Forms (eCRFs). This accurate transposition of data is critical to maintaining data integrity and ensuring that the data collected at the site is consistent with the reported clinical outcomes.

GCP guidelines specify that source data should be accurate, legible, and directly reflected in the CRFs to maintain consistency and reliability.

GCP guidelines emphasize the PI's responsibility to ensure that all equipment used in the study is functional, properly calibrated, and serviced as needed.
