問題 #132

A developer is working on an integration between Salesforce and an external system. The integration requires sending a large amount of data to the external system, which can cause long response times and timeouts.

To optimize the performance and avoid timeouts, which technique should be used?

- A. Use the @future annotation to make the callout asynchronous.
- B. Use a chained batch Apex to split the data into smaller batches.
- C. Increase the timeout limit in the callout options,
- D. Implement an asynchronous callout using the Continuation class,

答案: A

解題說明:

The best technique to optimize the performance and avoid timeouts when sending a large amount of data to the external system is to use the @future annotation to make the callout asynchronous. The @future annotation is a way to mark a method as asynchronous, which means that it runs in a separate thread and does not block the execution of the main thread. By using the @future annotation, the developer can make the callout to the external system without waiting for the response, which can improve the performance and avoid timeouts. The @future annotation also allows the developer to specify the callout option, which enables the method to make callouts to external web services . 問題 #133

Refer to the exhibit

    opportunity">
        <apex:input label="opportunity name"/>
        <apex:commandButton value="search"
            action="{!search}" />
    </apex:pageBlockSection>
    <apex:pageBlockSection title="Opportunity
List" id="opportunityList">
        <!-- DATA Table -->
    </apex:pageBlockSection>
</apex:pageBlock>
</apex:form>
</apex:page>

```

Users of this Visualforce page complain that the page does a full refresh every time the Search button is pressed. What should the developer do to ensure that a partial refresh is made so that only the section identified with opportunity List is re-drawn on the screen?

- A. Enclose the DATA table within the <apex:actionRegion> tag.
- B. Implement the <apex:actionfunction> tag with immediate = true.
- C. Implement the render attribute on the <apex:commandButton> tag.
- D. Ensure the action method search returns null.

答案：C
