NEW QUESTION # 117
Note: This question is part of a series of questions that present the same scenario. Each question in the series contains a unique solution that might meet the stated goals. Some question sets might have more than one correct solution, while others might not have a correct solution.
After you answer a question in this section, you will NOT be able to return to it. As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen.
You have a Microsoft 365 tenant.
All users must use the Microsoft Authenticator app for multi-factor authentication (MFA) when accessing Microsoft 365 services.
Some users report that they received an MFA prompt on their Microsoft Authenticator app without initiating a sign-in request.
You need to block the users automatically when they report an MFA request that they did not initiate.
Solution: From the Azure portal, you configure the Notifications settings for multi-factor authentication (MFA).
Does this meet the goal?

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:
In the SC-300 materials covering Azure AD MFA configuration, Microsoft distinguishes between Notifications (which control whether the Microsoft Authenticator sends push prompts) and Fraud alert settings (which determine what happens when a user reports an unexpected prompt). The study guide notes that notifications "enable push approvals to the app," but this does not take action when a user reports a suspicious prompt. To satisfy the requirement "block the users automatically when they report an MFA request they didn't initiate," you must use Fraud alert options. The documentation states that administrators can "allow users to submit fraud alerts" and "block users who report fraud" so that "reported accounts are immediately blocked until an administrator unblocks them." These options are part of the tenant's MFA service settings, not the Notifications section. In other words, simply configuring Notifications won't automatically block users who tap Report in Microsoft Authenticator; you must explicitly enable the setting to block users upon fraud reports. Therefore, the proposed solution-changing Notifications settings-does not meet the goal. The correct approach is to enable Fraud alert and select Block users who report fraud, ensuring automatic protection when users report unexpected MFA prompts.

NEW QUESTION # 118
You have an Azure subscription that contains the resources shown in the following table.
The subscription contains the virtual machines shown in the following table.

NEW QUESTION # 119
Drag and Drop Question
You have a Microsoft 365 E5 subscription that contains three users named User1, User2, and User3.
You need to configure the users as shown in the following table.
Which portal should you use to configure each user? To answer, drag the appropriate portals to the correct users. Each portal may be used once, more than once, or not at all. You may need to drag the split bar between panes or scroll to view content.
NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer:

Explanation:
Explanation:
User 1: Azure Active Directory Admin Center
User 2: Microsoft Purview admin center (legacy Microsoft Compliance Admin center) These roles came from Exchange, Microsoft is not enforcing the roles permission from Exchange, Microsoft is recommending using Microsoft Purview Admin center. I believe this answer is too old.
it could be true years ago, however, Microsoft today is with MS purview to assign these roles.
Record management and Quarantine role are known as SCC (security and compliance center) SCC roles have evolved from Exchange role groups design to MS Purview.
User 3: Microsoft Endpoint Manager Admin Center
You will see these two roles in the endpoint admin center.
