ISC Certified Cloud Security Professional Sample Questions (Q671-Q676):

NEW QUESTION # 671
Your new CISO is placing increased importance and focus on regulatory compliance as your applications and systems move into cloud environments.
Which of the following would NOT be a major focus of yours as you develop a project plan to focus on regulatory compliance?

- A. Data at rest
- B. Data custodian
- C. Data in transit
- D. Data in use

Answer: B

Explanation:
The jurisdictions where data is being stored, processed, or consumed are the ones that dictate the regulatory frameworks and compliance requirements, regardless of who the data owner or custodian might be. The other concepts for protecting data would all play a prominent role in regulatory compliance with a move to the cloud environment. Each concept needs to be evaluated based on the new configurations as well as any potential changes in jurisdiction or requirements introduced with the move to a cloud.

NEW QUESTION # 672
Which ITIL component is an ongoing, iterative process of tracking all deployed and configured resources that an organization uses and depends on, whether they are hosted in a traditional data center or a cloud?

- A. Continuity management
- B. Availability management
- C. Configuration management
- D. Problem management

Answer: C

Explanation:
Explanation
Configuration management tracks and maintains detailed information about all IT components within an organization. Availability management is focused on making sure system resources, processes, personnel, and toolsets are properly allocated and secured to meet SLA requirements. Continuity management (or business continuity management) is focused on planning for the successful restoration of systems or services after an unexpected outage, incident, or disaster. Problem management is focused on identifying and mitigating known problems and deficiencies before they occur.

NEW QUESTION # 673
For optimal security, trust zones are used for network segmentation and isolation. They allow for the separation of various systems and tiers, each with its own security level.
Which of the following is typically used to allow administrative personnel access to trust zones?

- A. TLS
- B. IPSec
- C. VPN
- D. SSH

Answer: C

Explanation:
Virtual private networks (VPNs) are used to provide administrative personnel with secure communication channels through security systems and into trust zones. They allow staff who perform system administration tasks to have access to ports and systems that are not allowed from the public Internet. IPSec is an encryption protocol for point-to-point communications at the network level, and may be used within a trust zone but not to give access into a trust zone. TLS enables encryption of communications between systems and services and would likely be used to secure the VPN communications, but it does not represent the overall concept being asked for in the question. SSH allows for secure shell access to systems, but not for general access into trust zones.

NEW QUESTION # 674
Which of the following is the recommended operating range for temperature and humidity in a data center?
Response:

- A. Between 62 °F - 81 °F and 40% and 65% relative humidity
- B. Between 60 °F - 85 °F and 40% and 60% relative humidity
- C. Between 64 °F - 84 °F and 30% and 60% relative humidity
- D. Between 64 °F - 81 °F and 40% and 60% relative humidity

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 675
Which of the following should occur at each stage of the SDLC?

- A. Verification and validation
- B. Management review
- C. Added functionality
- D. Repurposing of any newly developed components

Answer: A
