NEW QUESTION # 25

How is contingency typically managed in a DSDM project?

- A. Managed by varying the features to be delivered.
- B. Not needed in a DSDM project.
- C. Managed by varying time and cost
- D. Allowed adding a percentage to the high-level estimates.

Answer: A

Explanation:

In a DSDM project, contingency is typically managed by varying the features to be delivered⁶. This approach aligns with the DSDM principle of delivering the most critical work first and using the MoSCoW prioritization to adjust the scope of delivery as needed.

NEW QUESTION # 26

Which of the following roles may be substituted for a Scrum Master?

- A. The optimal solution has been designed and contracted
- B. There has been significant research and up front analysis
- C. The problem and solution are well defined and stable
- D. The problem is unclear and change is inevitable

Answer: D

Explanation:

Agility delivers the most benefit when uncertainty is high-when the problem is fuzzy, assumptions are unproven, stakeholders are still learning, and change is inevitable. In these contexts, iterative and incremental delivery, frequent feedback, and tight collaboration reduce risk by turning unknowns into knowns quickly. Timeboxing, continuous prioritization (e.g., MoSCoW), and demonstrable increments enable evidence-based decisions, allowing the team to pivot as understanding improves. Conversely, when the problem and solution are truly stable and well defined, predictive approaches can work adequately because variability is low. Likewise, heavy upfront research or a fully designed/contracted "optimal" solution implies a desire for certainty that may not exist; agile avoids over-investing in speculative plans by validating value early. Therefore, agility is most needed when discovery is paramount and adaptability is crucial-when the problem is unclear and change is inevitable.

NEW QUESTION # 27

During what phase should a baseline of the Evolving Solution be put into operational use?

- A. Foundations
- B. Deployment
- C. Evolutionary Development
- D. Post-Project

Answer: B

Explanation:

A baseline of the Evolving Solution should be put into operational use during the Deployment phase⁷. This phase is when the latest increment of the product is put into live use, marking the transition from development to real-world operation.

NEW QUESTION # 28

Which purpose relates to the Consolidation in a structured Timebox?

- A. To address the requirements and test the structure Timebox product.
- B. To formally accept the structured Timebox deliverables.
- C. To tie up any loose ends related to Evolutionary Development
- D. To confirm the detail of all the requirements to be delivered by the structured Timebox.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The purpose of the Consolidation phase in a structured Timebox is to tie up any loose ends related to Evolutionary Development. This phase involves finalizing all outstanding work, ensuring that the deliverables meet the required quality standards, and preparing the product for acceptance and deployment. It is a critical phase for addressing any minor issues that may have arisen during development and ensuring that the Timebox objectives have been fully achieved.
