IIA Essentials of Internal Auditing Sample Questions (Q576-Q581):

NEW QUESTION # 576
To achieve conformance with the Standards, the chief audit executive must include which of the following activities in the quality assurance and improvement program (QAIP)?

- A. Report the results of the QAIP to senior management
- B. Assess Standards conformance for each individual engagement.
- C. Require board oversight of the QAIP.
- D. Conduct a self assessment at least once every five years.

Answer: A

Explanation:
To achieve conformance with the Standards, the chief audit executive must include the activity of reporting the results of the quality assurance and improvement program (QAIP) to senior management and the board.
This is essential for maintaining transparency and accountability in the internal audit activity's efforts to uphold and enhance the quality of its operations. References: IIA Standard 1300: Quality Assurance and Improvement Program.

NEW QUESTION # 577
According to the 11A Code of Ethics, which of the following is required with regard to communicating results?

- A. The internal auditor should reveal material facts that could potentially distort the reporting of activities under review.
- B. The internal auditor should disclose all material information obtained by the date of the final engagement communication.
- C. The internal auditor should present material information to appropriate personnel within the organization without revealing confidential matters that could be detrimental to the organization.
- D. The internal auditor should obtain all material information within the established time and budget parameters.

Answer: B

Explanation:
According to the IIA's International Standards for the Professional Practice of Internal Auditing (Standards)
2420.A1, it is stated that the internal auditor must disclose all material information obtained by the date of the final engagement communication, which could impact the engagement conclusion or decision-making process. This ensures that all relevant facts are communicated to stakeholders appropriately. References:
International Standards for the Professional Practice of Internal Auditing (Standards) 2420.A1

NEW QUESTION # 578
To comply with the proficiency standard which of the following would the chief audit executive likely consider as the primary hiring criterion when choosing a new internal auditor?

- A. The length and consistency of the auditor's work experience
- B. The auditor's skills compared to those already possessed by other audit staff
- C. The auditor's ability to be self motivated and a good team player
- D. The auditor's demonstrated problem-solving skills

Answer: B

Explanation:
According to the IIA's standards on proficiency, the Chief Audit Executive (CAE) should consider primarily how well the skills and experience of a new auditor complement those of the existing audit team. This ensures a diverse and comprehensive skill set within the audit team, aligning with the Standard 1210.A2, which stipulates that the internal audit activity collectively should possess or obtain the knowledge, skills, and other competencies needed to perform its responsibilities.References: Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA) Standards, specifically Standard 1210 on Proficiency.

NEW QUESTION # 579

Which of the following is an example of an application control?

- A. Operating system updates must be installed within 48 hours.
- B. Employees in the data center must always wear identification badges
- C. A two stage authentication process must be used to access customer information
- D. System backup and recovery testing must be done monthly

Answer: C

Explanation:
An example of an application control specifically involves the software or system used to process information.
A two-stage authentication process to access customer information is an application control because it involves the authentication mechanisms within the application software to secure access to sensitive data. This control helps in verifying the identity of users and ensuring that access to critical data is restricted to authorized personnel only.References: IT Governance Institute's COBIT Framework.

NEW QUESTION # 580

Which of the following best describes a proactive role for the internal audit activity with regard to the organization's ethics program?

- A. Becoming a voting member of the organization's internal ethics council.
- B. Reviewing all departmental ethics-related policies.
- C. Performing an annual organizationwide employee survey.
- D. Conducting annual ethics training for all employees.

Answer: C

Explanation:
Performing an annual organization-wide employee survey is a proactive role for the internal audit activity with regard to the organization's ethics program. This survey can help assess the ethical climate, identify potential ethical issues, and gather employee perceptions and feedback. The results can be used to improve the ethics program, enhance training, and ensure that ethical standards are effectively communicated and upheld throughout the organization.References:
* The IIA's Practice Guide on Evaluating Ethics-Related Programs and Activities.
* The IIA's International Professional Practices Framework (IPPF) on Assessing Organizational Ethics.
