HPE Aruba Networking ClearPass Exam Sample Questions (Q10-Q15):

NEW QUESTION # 10

A user is experiencing intermittent network disconnections while their device is undergoing health checks via the OnGuard persistent agent. After each disconnection, the device is forced to re-authenticate. What is the primary mechanism that triggers these disconnections and ensures proper network access?

- A. The network switch automatically resets the port after detecting a posture change in the device.
- B. ClearPass processes the Enforcement Profile and sends a RADIUS CoA terminate session message to the NAD, causing the client to disconnect and re-authenticate.

- C. The OnGuard agent sends a disconnect signal to the device after completing each health check.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When an OnGuard agent finishes its scan, it sends the results to ClearPass. If the status has changed (e.g., from "Healthy" to "Unhealthy"), ClearPass evaluates its Enforcement Policy and selects a profile that includes a CoA (Change of Authorization) action. ClearPass sends this Disconnect-Request to the switch (NAD), which drops the client session. The device's supplicant immediately reconnects, triggering a new authentication that places the user in the correct, updated role.

NEW QUESTION # 11

In a scenario where ClearPass is configured to poll an EMM server, what advantage does ClearPass gain by ingesting device context from the EMM server?

- A. ClearPass can encrypt all data transmissions from managed devices.
- B. ClearPass identifies managed devices attempting to authenticate and access the network in advance.
- C. ClearPass can disable unauthorized devices before they connect to the network.

Answer: B

Explanation:

By polling the EMM server, ClearPass ingests device context such as ownership and management status. This allows ClearPass to recognize managed devices before or during authentication and apply appropriate access policies proactively.

NEW QUESTION # 12

A company wants to prevent corporate devices from accessing the guest network. They configure a ClearPass Entity Update Enforcement action to tag devices as corporate clients. What happens when a tagged device attempts to access the guest network?

- A. The corporate client is redirected to a different network.
- B. The guest access service reads the attribute and denies access to the guest network.
- C. The enforcement action is ignored, and the device accesses the guest network.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Entity Update allows ClearPass to write custom attributes back to its own Endpoint database. Once a device is tagged as "Corporate," this attribute becomes part of the context available to all services. When that device connects to a "Guest" SSID, the Guest Service can include a rule that checks for the "Corporate" tag; if found, the service uses an Enforcement Policy to return a "Deny Access" profile, successfully segmenting corporate assets from the guest network.

NEW QUESTION # 13

Where in ClearPass can you back up the system configuration and policy database?

Response:

- A. Access Tracker > Export Logs
- B. Monitoring > Event Viewer
- C. System > Configuration > Backups
- D. Administration > Policy Manager > Licensing

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 14

An IT administrator notices that endpoints are being re-evaluated with the same enforcement decisions even after client status changes. They realize this is causing inefficient network access control. What could be the underlying issue?

- A. The service is configured to reset posture and role status every time.
- B. The 'Use Cached Results' option is not enabled on the enforcement tab.

- C. The client devices are not compliant with the network security policies.

Answer: B

Explanation:

While caching can sometimes cause issues (as seen in Q76), enabling 'Use Cached Results' is often necessary for efficiency in complex multi-stage authentications. If this is not enabled, ClearPass may fail to properly correlate new status changes (like a profile update) with the existing session, leading the system to revert to a default or previous decision rather than dynamically adjusting the access based on the latest context.

NEW QUESTION # 15
