PMI Cognitive Project Management in AI CPMAI v7 - Training & Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q84-Q89):

NEW QUESTION # 84
You just joined a new company and they want to start their first AI project. Senior management thinks the best approach is to just buy AI from a vendor. You know that AI is something you do, not something you buy.
What is your next best course of action to address this?

- A. Help senior management do research on AI vendors
- B. Share prior experiences with how your last team addressed this problem and their data quality issues
- C. Say nothing and let the team figure it out for themselves
- D. Share prior experiences with how your last team addressed this problem and how you solved it

Answer: D

Explanation:
CPMAI's Differentiate AI Project Management Approaches task stresses that effective AI adoption requires building internal capabilities and understanding domain-specific challenges. By sharing your own team's past experiences-how you diagnosed the problem, structured the data, and developed AI solutions-you guide leadership toward establishing a homegrown, iterative AI practice rather than simply purchasing a black-box product .

NEW QUESTION # 85
You are working on the data engineering pipeline for the AI project and you want to make sure to address the creation of pipelines to deal with model iteration. What part of the pipeline best deals with this step?

- A. Data Acquisition / Ingest / Capture
- B. Feature Engineering
- C. ELT pipeline
- D. Retraining Pipelines

Answer: D

Explanation:
CPMAI's Model Development phase includes a specialized task-Fine-Tuning / Re-training of Pre-Trained Models-which requires teams to "determine and document what approach will be used to...re-train pre- trained models." Implementing retraining pipelines ensures the model can be iteratively updated with new data and configurations in a reproducible, automated fashion .
==========

NEW QUESTION # 86
Your team is planning an AI-enabled chatbot project to help reduce call center load. They are currently determining if the project can get off the ground and working through the AI Go/No Go feasibility questions.

What stage of CPMAI is the team currently working on?

- A. Phase IV
- B. Phase I
- C. Phase VI
- D. Phase V
- E. Phase II
- F. Phase III

Answer: B

Explanation:
The AI Go/No Go assessment is part of Phase I: Business Understanding under the Cognitive Project Requirements generic task group. In Phase I, teams perform business-feasibility, data-feasibility, and execution-feasibility checks before proceeding with any AI work .

NEW QUESTION # 87
Major factors for the project you are currently working on are around the training time, cost, and complexity of training your models. Which algorithm is not the best choice given these constraints?

- A. Gaussian Mixture
- B. Neural Networks
- C. Support Vector Machines (SVM)
- D. Naive Bayes

Answer: B

Explanation:
Neural Networks-especially deep architectures-typically require extensive computational resources, longer training times, and higher infrastructure costs compared to simpler methods. In contrast, algorithms like Naive Bayes train very quickly on large datasets, and Gaussian Mixture Models or SVMs have more moderate training complexity and infrastructure demands. Therefore, given strict constraints on training time, cost, and complexity, Neural Networks are the least suitable choice.

NEW QUESTION # 88
During CPMAI Phase II of your project, your team is going through their data collection needs. One team member wants to make use of pre-trained models while another member is adamantly against it.
As the project lead, what should you do?

- A. Have one team build all models in-house and the other team use pre-trained models and see which team's models perform better.
- B. Evaluate your data and see if using pre-trained models make sense. If so, have the team see what pre- trained models your company already owns and use those.
- C. Evaluate your data and use only what you have and build all models in house.
- D. Evaluate your data and see if using pre-trained models make sense. If so, have the team do research to find the ones that best suit your project.

Answer: D

Explanation:
The Pre-Trained and Third-Party Model Usage task in Phase II: Data Understanding directs teams to first assess whether external or foundation models are appropriate given the current data and objectives. If so, they should then research and select the specific pre-trained models that best align with the project's domain, performance needs, and integration constraints. This ensures suitability before committing to fine-tuning or ensemble strategies.
