Google Cloud Certified - Professional Google Workspace Administrator Sample Questions (Q21-Q26):

NEW QUESTION # 21

The current data storage limit for the sales organizational unit (OU) at your company is set at 10GB per user. A subset of sales representatives in that OU need 100GB of storage across shared services. You need to increase the storage for only the subset of sales representatives by using the least disruptive approach and the fewest configuration steps. What should you do?

- A. Create a configuration group, and add the subset of users to that group. Set the group storage limit to 100GB.
- B. Move the subset of users to a sub-OU, and assign a 100GB storage limit to that sub-OU.
- C. Change the storage limit of the sales OU to 100GB.
- D. Instruct the subset of users to store their documents in a Shared Drive with a 100GB limit.

Answer: B

Explanation:

By moving the subset of sales representatives to a sub-organizational unit (OU) and assigning a 100GB storage limit to that sub-OU, you can efficiently increase the storage for those users without affecting the rest of the sales team. This approach allows you to target the specific users that require more storage, maintaining minimal disruption and configuration steps.

NEW QUESTION # 22

Your organization recently bought 1,000 licenses for Cloud Identity Premium. The company's development team created an application in the enterprise service bus (ESB) that will read user data in the human resources information system (HRIS) and create accounts via the Google Directory REST API.

While doing the original test before production use, the team observes a 503 error coming from Google API response after a few users are created. The team believes the ESB is not the cause, because it can perform 100 requests per second without any problems. What advice would you give the development team in order to avoid the issue?

- A. Use an exponential back-off algorithm to retry failed requests.
- B. Switch from REST API to gRPC protocol for performance improvement
- C. Use the domain-wide delegation API to avoid the limitation per account.
- D. Use the batch request architecture, because it can pack 1,000 API calls in one HTTP request.

Answer: A

Explanation:

* Understand the Error:

* A 503 error indicates that the service is unavailable, often due to temporary overloading or maintenance of the server.

* This can happen when API rate limits are exceeded.

* Exponential Back-Off Algorithm:

* This algorithm helps manage retries after a request fails, by exponentially increasing the waiting time between retries.

* Start with a short delay and increase it exponentially with each subsequent retry.

* Implementation:

* Modify the ESB application to include the exponential back-off algorithm.

* Ensure that the retries are limited to a reasonable number to avoid indefinite looping.

* This approach will help mitigate the temporary overloads by spreading out the request attempts.

NEW QUESTION # 23

You are configuring email for your company's Google Workspace account. The company wants to prevent certain types of files from being sent or received as email attachments in the simplest and most cost-effective way. What should you do?

- A. Adjust the maximum message size limit to prevent large files from being sent or received.
- B. Enable the Security Sandbox in Gmail to automatically quarantine emails with suspicious attachments.
- C. Scan all incoming and outgoing emails for malicious attachments by using an industry standard third-party email security solution.
- D. Configure an attachment compliance rule in Gmail settings to block specific file types.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Configuring an attachment compliance rule in Gmail allows you to specifically block certain types of files from being sent or received as email attachments. This approach is simple and cost-effective because it leverages Google Workspace's built-in functionality without requiring third-party solutions or advanced configurations. You can easily specify which file types to block, ensuring that your organization is protected from undesirable attachments.
