IBM watsonx Generative AI Engineer - Associate Sample Questions (Q52-Q57):

NEW QUESTION # 52

You are tasked with building a generative AI model to help create automated marketing copy for a business. A key concern is the potential generation of biased or legally sensitive content, which could negatively impact the company's reputation. Which of the following strategies would be the most effective in mitigating these model risks?

- A. Include fairness metrics in the model evaluation stage to monitor for biased outputs.
- B. Implement a post-processing filter to remove any potentially offensive or legally sensitive content.
- C. Use reinforcement learning to fine-tune the model based on user feedback to eliminate bias in the long term.
- D. Use a comprehensive training dataset that includes diverse business domains to reduce biases.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 53

You are tasked with integrating a generative AI model on watsonx.ai into a custom business workflow. The workflow requires complex prompt chains and interaction with external APIs.

Which of the following best describes how you should approach the integration using watsonx.ai and LangChain?

- A. Directly integrate the external APIs with watsonx.ai without any intermediate framework, since LangChain would add unnecessary overhead.
- B. Use only watsonx.ai's built-in APIs and SDKs for integration, as LangChain is not required for chaining multiple prompts.
- C. Write custom scripts to manage all prompt sequences manually, leveraging watsonx.ai's SDK to call the generative AI model at every step.
- D. Implement LangChain to handle complex multi-step workflows, using watsonx.ai's APIs to generate responses at specific stages in the chain.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 54

While working with IBM Watsonx, you are asked to ensure that the synthetic data generated has a low privacy leakage probability. During the generation process, you must adjust settings related to privacy leakage probability.

Which factor most directly affects the probability of privacy leakage when generating synthetic data with differential privacy?

- A. The use of ensemble models to train on different portions of the dataset and reduce dependency on individual records.
- B. The size of the original dataset used for training.
- C. The amount of noise added to the synthetic data during the differential privacy process.
- D. The quality and variance of the synthetic data generated.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 55

You are working with IBM Watsonx to develop a generative AI solution that automatically generates product descriptions for an e-commerce website. The descriptions need to be concise, factual, and include important product features like size, color, and material.

Which prompt design approach would best ensure the output meets these requirements?

- A. "Provide a product description for the following items, ensuring it is factual, concise, and includes specific details such as size, color, and material."
- B. "Generate a creative and imaginative product description for the items listed below."
- C. "Write a summary that provides information on each product, making the content engaging, humorous, and memorable."
- D. "Generate a product description that highlights the unique aspects of the product and uses emotional language to engage the reader."

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 56

You are working with IBM Watsonx and need to generate synthetic data to improve your model's performance on a custom domain-specific task. After importing a dataset, you want to use the User Interface to generate this synthetic data. What is the primary benefit of using synthetic data generation in fine-tuning your model?

- A. It improves the model's generalization by exposing it to a wider variety of data points and scenarios.
- B. It creates a larger training dataset by duplicating and randomizing the existing data, which enhances model accuracy.
- C. It automatically anonymizes sensitive data points to comply with data privacy regulations during the synthetic data generation process.
- D. It eliminates the need for any human intervention in the fine-tuning process.

Answer: A
