Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q26-Q31):

NEW QUESTION # 26

During a technical review, the Client raises a need to display product pricing on the Product Detail Page (PDP) with discounted values per promotion. The Client notes customers complained of bad user experiences in the past when they would add a product to the basket from the cached PDP and then see a higher price when they started checkout as the promotion had expired. What should the Architect suggest be implemented for this given that performance should be minimally impact?

- A. Create a separate template or view based on the promotion.
- B. Modify the page to vary the cache by price and promotion.
- C. Remove caching of the product page during the promotion.
- D. Adjust the PDP to have a low caching period during the promotion.

Answer: B

Explanation:

To address the issue of pricing discrepancies on the Product Detail Page (PDP) due to promotions expiring between the page view and checkout, the Architect should suggest modifying the page cache to vary by price and promotion (Answer C). This solution allows the cache to store different versions of the page based on the current price and applicable promotions. By doing so, it ensures that customers always see the most accurate pricing information depending on the active promotions at the time of their visit, thereby improving the user experience and reducing confusion at checkout. This method also minimizes the performance impact compared to completely disabling cache, as it still allows caching but in a more dynamically controlled manner.

NEW QUESTION # 27

A B2C Commerce Developer has just finished implementing a new promotion code form on checkout. During review, an Architect notes that the form is not using CSRF validation correctly.

Which two options are best practice recommendations for dealing with CSRF validation? Choose 2 answers

- A. Automatically renew the CSRF Token if expired.
- B. Ensure the CSRF protection is validated on form submission.
- C. Only use GET methods over HTTPS.
- D. Only use POST methods over HTTPS.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

For implementing CSRF (Cross-Site Request Forgery) protection correctly, especially in forms like promotion code submissions during checkout, best practices include:

* Option A (Ensure the CSRF protection is validated on form submission): It is crucial to validate the CSRF token upon the form's submission to ensure that the request originates from a legitimate source and corresponds to the user's intended actions, enhancing security against CSRF attacks.

* Option D (Only use POST methods over HTTPS): Using POST methods for transmitting form data helps mitigate the risk of CSRF attacks as opposed to GET methods which can be manipulated more easily via URL. Ensuring the communication is over HTTPS encrypts the transmission, securing the data from interception or tampering during transit.

These practices safeguard against common security vulnerabilities and ensure that the application adheres to secure coding standards.
