NEW QUESTION # 106

Your organization utilizes Configurator Cloud to support the majority of their customer sales orders, One of your primary jobs is to create and maintain the various Configurator tasks that support the sales order flows.

A lot of your work is concentrated on Configurator models.

Which two elements are subtabs on the Edit Configurator Model page > Structure tab?

- A. Applicability
- B. Rules
- C. Supplemental Structures
- D. User Interfaces
- E. Item attributes

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

The Edit Configurator Model page is where you can modify the structure, rules, user interfaces, and connectors of a configurator model in Configurator Cloud. The Structure tab is where you can view and edit the features and options that make up the model structure. The Structure tab has two subtabs: Item attributes and Supplemental Structures¹.

* Item attributes are the characteristics or properties of the features and options that participate in the model structure. You can use item attributes to define the behavior and appearance of the features and options, such as the default value, the display name, the data type, and the validation rules².

* Supplemental Structures are the additional structures that you can create and associate with the model structure. You can use supplemental structures to add more features and options to the model, such as accessories, services, or documentation. You can also use supplemental structures to create different views of the model, such as a technical view or a marketing view³.

NEW QUESTION # 107

In Configurator Cloud, which response best defines an Explicit statement within Constraint Definition Language?

- A. Explicit statements express relationships among explicitly identified participants and restrict the execution of the rule to those participants and the model containing those participants.
- B. Iterator statements can use local variables that are bound to one or more iterators over collections.
- C. In an implicit statement, you must identify each node and attribute that participates in the rule by specifying its location in the model structure.
- D. Multiple statements in a rule definition must be separated from one another with a comma (,).

Answer: A

Explanation:

Constraint Definition Language (CDL) is a language that you use to create configurator rules in Configurator Cloud. CDL supports two types of statements: explicit and implicit. An explicit statement is a type of statement that specifies the exact nodes and attributes that participate in the rule, and limits the scope of the rule to those nodes and attributes and the model that contains them. An explicit statement uses the dot (.) notation to identify the location of the nodes and attributes in the model structure¹. For example, the following rule is an explicit statement:

Model1.Feature1.Option1 IMPLIES Model1.Feature2.Option2

This rule means that if Option1 of Feature1 is selected in Model1, then Option2 of Feature2 must also be selected in Model1. The rule only applies to Model1 and its nodes and attributes.

NEW QUESTION # 108

What is the configuration required to automatically calculate the Jeopardy Score and priority when an orchestration process is planned or re-planned?

- A. Check the change mode parameter to Advanced on the orchestration process.
- B. Check the Replan Instantly parameter in the orchestration process.
- C. Schedule the process refresh and start the order promising server.
- D. Schedule the process plan orchestration processes.

Answer: B

Explanation:

You can enable the Replan Instantly feature when you define an orchestration process. It replans the orchestration process immediately after this process completes the orchestration process step, and then displays the revised order data according to the replanning work that it does. It is recommended that you use Replan Instantly only for high priority sales orders, or with sales orders that include a jeopardy threshold of less than one day. For performance reasons, it is recommended that you do not use it with an orchestration process step that is long or complex. If Replan Instantly does not contain a check mark, then Order Management updates the planning data only during the scheduled replanning.

NEW QUESTION # 109

You want to edit a model, but want to make sure that you have the most current updates in your model.

Which two steps should you perform to verify and update your model to have the most current updates?

- A. Use the "Add Updated Item Snapshots for Models" command on the Workspace page to add the updated snapshots to the model's workspace.
- B. Verify that the Snapshot status is "Released".
- C. Verify that the Snapshot status is "Updates in workspace".
- D. Verify that the Snapshot status is "Modified".
- E. No action required, because changes made to an item structure in Product Information Management are automatically reflected in any active model that contains that structure.
- F. Verify that the Snapshot status is "Updates not in workspace".

Answer: A,F

Explanation:

Verify that the Snapshot status is "Updates not in workspace" and F. Use the "Add Updated Item Snapshots for Models" command on the Workspace page to add the updated snapshots to the model's workspace.

These are the two steps that you should perform to verify and update your model to have the most current updates. A snapshot is a copy of the item-based model structure that you import from the Product Information Management work area into the Configurator Models work area¹. The snapshot status indicates whether the snapshot has any changes that are not yet reflected in the model's workspace². If the snapshot status is

"Updates not in workspace", it means that there are changes made to the item structure in the Product Information Management work area that are not yet imported into the Configurator Models work area. You can use the "Add Updated Item Snapshots for Models" command on the Workspace page to add the updated snapshots to the model's workspace. This command updates the model structure with the latest changes from the Product Information Management work area³.
