CompTIA Advanced Security Practitioner (CASP+) Exam Sample Questions (Q97-Q102):

NEW QUESTION # 97
An organization recently started processing, transmitting, and storing its customers' credit card information. Within a week of doing so, the organization suffered a massive breach that resulted in the exposure of the customers' information.
Which of the following provides the BEST guidance for protecting such information while it is at rest and in transit?

- A. GDPR
- B. NIST
- C. PCI DSS
- D. ISO

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 98
A software developer created an application for a large, multinational company. The company is concerned the program code could be reverse engineered by a foreign entity and intellectual property would be lost. Which of the following techniques should be used to prevent this situation?

- A. Obfuscation
- B. Watermarking
- C. Code signing
- D. Digital certificates

Answer: A

Explanation:
Obfuscation is a technique used to make the program code difficult to understand or read. It can help to prevent reverse engineering by making it more challenging to analyze the code and understand its structure and functionality, thereby protecting intellectual property.

NEW QUESTION # 99
A security analyst has been assigned incident response duties and must instigate the response on a Windows device that appears to be compromised.
Which of the following commands should be executed on the client FIRST?

- A.
- B.
- C.
- D.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 100
A security analyst notices a number of SIEM events that show the following activity:
Which of the following response actions should the analyst take FIRST?

- A. Disable powershell.exe on all Microsoft Windows endpoints.
- B. Configure the forward proxy to block 40.90.23.154.
- C. Restart Microsoft Windows Defender.

- D. Disable local administrator privileges on the endpoints.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Stop the data exfiltration and sever all malicious traffic first, and then clean up the internal mess.

NEW QUESTION # 101
During a vendor assessment, an analyst reviews a listing of the complementary user entity controls included in the audit report. Which of the following is the most important aspect to consider when reviewing this list with the security team?

- A. How the user entity will audit the CSP's implementation of the user entity controls
- B. How the CSP performs the controls on behalf of the user entity
- C. How the organization should monitor the CSP's execution of the user entity controls
- D. How the organization will implement and monitor the user entity controls

Answer: D

Explanation:
User entity controls are responsibilities that must be implemented by the organization, so determining how to implement and monitor them is critical.
Monitoring the CSP or auditing their implementation pertains to the CSP's responsibilities, not complementary user entity controls.

NEW QUESTION # 102
.....
