Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q15-Q20):

NEW QUESTION # 15

A company manages its regional operations as separate businesses. The regional sites (Site A and Site B) operate with:

- * Separate realms
- * Different code bases
- * Different category navigation menus
- * Frequent updates on category structure

The requirement from the business is to provide hreflang link tags on category pages pointing to the same category on the other regional site. Example HTML for one of these links as displayed on Site A is:

```
<link rel="alternate" href="https://www.siteB.com/en_US/womens-new-arrivals" hreflang="en_US" />
```

Which solution should the Architect choose while keeping performance in mind?

- A. Create a custom Business Manager module. Ask the business to maintain the hreflang link tags for each regional site in this Business Manager module.
- B. Create additional locales in all realms create a new custom attribute on the category that is localized.

Populate the attribute with the other site URLs and use it to display the hreflang tag.

- C. Create a new custom object type Populate the hreflang mapping for each category and locale in this custom object. Use the custom object to display the hreflang link tag.
- D. Create a new custom attribute on the Category. Populate the attribute with the other entire site URLs corresponding to locales In JSON Format. Use the attribute to display the hreflang link tag.

Answer: C

Explanation:

For a multi-regional setup with different realms and frequent updates, using a custom object to manage hreflang mappings offers flexibility and scalability. Custom objects can efficiently store URL mappings for each category across different locales, making it easier to manage and update as category structures change.

This method allows for centralized control over hreflang mappings and simplifies maintenance compared to other options which might involve more complex integrations or manual updates.

NEW QUESTION # 16

A developer is validating the pipeline cache and noticed that the PDP page is very low cached. The one parameter is snowing the position on the product listing page upon checking the site and code.

What should the developer adjust in order to improve the page cache hit ratio, keeping in mind that the client is Insisting on the parameter for their analytics?

- A. Rework the implementation so it reads the parameter on client-side, passes it to the analytics and exclude It from cache parameters.
- B. Rework the Implementation so the parameter is not passed In the URL and is read from the URL hash.
- C. Add the key to the cache exclude parameters.
- D. Rework the Implementation so it doesn't depend on that parameter.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 17

During implementation, the team found that there is a notification controller exposed for an external service that marks the order as paid when notification is received. The notification URL is sent to the service together with the payment request and contains only the URL with orderID as the parameter.

What should the Architect recommend to the team in order to prevent the unauthorized usage of the controller to mark the orders as paid?

- A. Add a session attribute and validate it on the callback.
- B. Add HTTPS restriction to the controller start node.
- C. Add a customer number in the callback URL and match the customer number against the one stored on the order.
- D. Add an order token in the callback URL and match the token against the one stored on the order.

Answer: D

Explanation:

To enhance the security of the notification controller exposed for marking orders as paid, the recommended approach is to add an order-specific token to the callback URL (Answer C). This token should be verified against a stored value on the order to ensure the authenticity and integrity of the payment notification. This method prevents unauthorized use of the controller, as only callbacks containing the correct, order-specific token would be allowed to mark orders as paid. This strategy is essential in maintaining secure and reliable transaction processes within Salesforce B2C Commerce.

NEW QUESTION # 18

The Client wants to offer custom made container products on its new B2C Commerce storefront. The Client provided two business requirements.

* Customer can specify container length, width, and height.

* Customer can specify the material that the container is made of.

The Client also provided the Architect a current data schema (shown below) for reference while preparing the technical documentation.

Which two gaps between the requirements and the data schema should the Architect discuss with the Client?
Choose 2 answers

- A. The data schema includes a Color_ID field, but there isn't a business requirement to allow the customer to specify container color.
- B. The data schema includes a material Price_Markup field, but there isn't a business requirement to factor the material cost into the final price calculation.
- C. The data schema includes an implied structure that the customer's choices should be captured as custom objects, but there isn't a business requirement to do so.
- D. The data schema includes unique identifiers for material and color fields, but neither are reflected in the business requirements.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

The provided data schema includes several fields that do not match the stated business requirements, which focus on the custom dimensions and materials of the containers:

* Option A: The inclusion of unique identifiers for materials and color fields in the data schema suggests a level of detail and structure around these attributes that is not reflected in the business requirements. If the business does not require tracking or differentiating materials beyond just naming them, this might be unnecessarily complex.

* Option D: The data schema includes a Color_ID field, which implies the ability to specify the color of the container. However, the business requirements do not mention color as a customization option available to customers. This discrepancy needs to be addressed to ensure that the database design aligns with actual business needs.

NEW QUESTION # 19

A new version of the Page Show controller is required for implementation of Page Designer specific look. It requires implementation of a specific, cache period for Page Designer pages, which is not currently available in the base Storefront Reference Architecture (SFRA) cache.js module. What two steps should the Architect instruct the developer to implement?

Choose 2 answers

- A. Create new Page.js controller in client's cartridge. Copy code from base and modify the Page-Show route to include the new cache middleware function.
- B. Create new Page.js controller in client's cartridge. Extend the code from base and prepend the new cache middleware function to Page-Show route.
- C. Create new cache.js in client's cartridge. Copy cache.js from app_storefront_base and add a function for the Page Designer caching.
- D. Create new cache.js in client's cartridge. Extend cache.js from app_storefront_base and add a function for the Page Designer caching.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

To implement a specific cache period for Page Designer pages in SFRA:

* Option A involves creating a new Page.js controller in the client's cartridge, where the existing Page- Show route can be modified to include a custom caching logic. This ensures that the specific caching requirements for Page Designer pages are met without altering the base functionality for other pages.

* Option D calls for extending the existing cache.js module in the client's cartridge to include a function specifically for Page Designer caching. This allows for reusing the existing caching logic while adding enhancements specific to the Page Designer pages, thus maintaining efficiency and clarity in the codebase.

Both options provide a clean, maintainable approach to customizing caching for specific requirements in SFRA, avoiding disruptions in other areas of the site functionality.
