Salesforce Certified Platform User Experience Designer Sample Questions (Q129-Q134):

NEW QUESTION # 129

A UX Designer creates a set of patterns and guidelines for including visual indicators letting a user know which form fields are required.

Which Usability Heuristic is being used in this case?

- A. User Control and Freedom
- B. Visibility of system status

- C. Error diagnosis and recovery

Answer: B

Explanation:

Visibility of system status is the usability heuristic that is being used in this case. Visibility of system status means that the system should always keep users informed about what is going on, through appropriate feedback within reasonable time. One way to apply this heuristic is to use visual indicators to let users know which form fields are required, such as asterisks, labels, or colors. This helps users to understand the expectations and requirements of the system, and to avoid errors or confusion. By providing clear and timely feedback, the system enhances the user experience and satisfaction. NEW QUESTION # 130

A UX Designer needs to restyle a `<lightning-modal />` Lightning Web Component (LWC) to meet brand guidelines. Which key consideration about that LWC should the UX designer be aware of?

- A. Only the main Lightning Modal component can be styled using styling hooks.
- B. Only the body, footer, and header helper components can be styled using styling hooks.
- C. The model cannot be styled using styling hooks

Answer: A

Explanation:

When restyling a `<lightning-modal />` Lightning Web Component (LWC) to meet brand guidelines, it's important to know that styling customization options may be limited. Specifically, only the main Lightning Modal component can be styled using styling hooks. This limitation means that while you can apply brand-specific styles to the overall modal component using styling hooks, the finer control over the modal's internal sections (like the body, footer, and header) might not be directly accessible through these hooks. This constraint necessitates a strategic approach to styling, focusing on the aspects of the modal that can be customized to align with brand guidelines while understanding the inherent limitations.

NEW QUESTION # 131

A UX designer is creating a customer support site in experience builder that will internationalized across the 12 different countries. Which two designs considerations should be made when planning for the site

- A. Country flags used as links to adjust languages provide an ideal way to switch between local languages for users
- B. colors may have different cultural meanings in different countries, changing the intent of UI elements
- C. Country may read text in a different direction (right to left) vs (left to right) and layouts will need to be adjusted
- D. colors may have different contrast ratios in some countries and need adjusted contrast for proper visibility by users

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

These two design considerations should be made when planning for a customer support site in experience builder that will be internationalized across 12 different countries. They are related to the principles of internationalization and localization, which are the processes of designing and adapting a product or service to meet the needs and preferences of users in different cultures, languages, and regions. By taking these considerations into account, a UX designer can create a site that is consistent, usable, and appealing for a global audience.

Country may read text in a different direction (right to left) vs (left to right) and layouts will need to be adjusted: This consideration is related to the principle of bidirectionality, which is the ability of a product or service to support both left-to-right (LTR) and right-to-left (RTL) languages, such as Arabic, Hebrew, Persian, and Urdu. These languages have different writing systems, text alignment, and reading order than LTR languages, such as English, French, Spanish, and German. Therefore, a UX designer needs to adjust the layouts of the site to accommodate both LTR and RTL languages, such as by using flexible grids, mirroring elements, and avoiding fixed positions. This way, the site can provide a natural and intuitive reading experience for users in different countries.

Colors may have different cultural meanings in different countries, changing the intent of UI elements: This consideration is related to the principle of cultural sensitivity, which is the awareness and respect of the cultural differences and preferences of users in different countries. Colors are one of the most important aspects of visual design, as they can convey emotions, moods, messages, and actions. However, colors can also have different cultural meanings and associations in different countries, which can affect how users perceive and interact with the site. For example, red can mean danger, passion, or luck, depending on the country. Therefore, a UX designer needs to choose colors that are appropriate and consistent with the intended meaning and purpose of the UI elements, such as buttons, icons, labels, and alerts. This way, the site can avoid confusion, misunderstanding, or offense for users in different countries.

NEW QUESTION # 132

Which document should be the source of truth for consistency when implementing a company's brand on Salesforce?

- A. Style Guide
- B. Salesforce Lightning Design System
- C. Pattern Library
- D. Design Principles

Answer: A

Explanation:

A style guide is a document that defines the visual identity and branding of a company, such as the logo, color palette, typography, iconography, imagery, and tone of voice. It helps ensure consistency and coherence across different platforms and channels, and communicates the company's values and personality. When implementing a company's brand on Salesforce, the style guide should be the source of truth for consistency, as it provides the guidelines and rules for applying the brand elements to the user interface. A style guide can also include a pattern library, which is a collection of reusable UI components and design patterns that follow the style guide. A design principle is a statement that expresses the core values and goals of a design process, and guides the decision making and evaluation of a design solution. The Salesforce Lightning Design System (SLDS) is a set of design guidelines and resources for creating consistent and beautiful user experiences on the Salesforce platform. It can be used as a reference and a foundation for customizing the UI according to the company's style guide. Reference:
