NEW QUESTION # 119

- A. Automatic API proxy generation
- B. Automatic API specification generation
- C. Automatic API semantic versioning
- D. Automatic API governance

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 120

Which Anypoint Platform component should a MuleSoft developer use to create an API specification prior to building the API implementation?

- A. Runtime Manager
- B. API Designer
- C. API Manager
- D. MUnit

Answer: B

Explanation:

A MuleSoft developer should use API Designer to create an API specification prior to building the API implementation. API Designer is a component of Anypoint Platform that provides a web-based interface for designing and documenting APIs. It supports API modeling languages such as RAML and OAS, enabling developers to define the structure, resources, and operations of an API before proceeding with implementation. This approach aligns with the design-first methodology, ensuring a well-defined contract for the API.

NEW QUESTION # 121

A corporation has deployed Mule applications to different customer-hosted Mule runtimes. Mule applications deployed to these Mule runtimes are managed by Anypoint Platform.

What needs to be installed or configured (if anything) to monitor these Mule applications from Anypoint Monitoring, and how is monitoring data from each Mule application sent to Anypoint Monitoring?

- A. Leave the out-of-the-box Anypoint Monitoring agent unchanged in its default Mule runtime installation. Each Anypoint Monitoring agent sends monitoring data from the Mule applications running in its Mule runtime to Runtime Manager, then Runtime Manager sends monitoring data to Anypoint Monitoring.
- B. Enable monitoring of individual Mule applications from the Runtime Manager application settings. Runtime Manager sends monitoring data to Anypoint Monitoring for each deployed Mule application.
- C. Install an Anypoint Monitoring agent on each Mule runtime. Each Anypoint Monitoring agent sends monitoring data from the Mule applications running in its Mule runtime to Anypoint Monitoring.
- D. Install a Runtime Manager agent on each Mule runtime. Each Runtime Manager agent sends monitoring data from the Mule applications running in its Mule runtime to Runtime Manager, then Runtime Manager sends monitoring data to Anypoint Monitoring.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To monitor Mule applications deployed to different customer-hosted Mule runtimes using Anypoint Monitoring, follow these steps:

* Install Anypoint Monitoring Agent: Install an Anypoint Monitoring agent on each Mule runtime. This agent is responsible for collecting monitoring data from the Mule applications running on that runtime.

* Data Transmission: Each Anypoint Monitoring agent sends the collected monitoring data directly to Anypoint Monitoring. This ensures that performance metrics, logs, and other relevant data are available for analysis and monitoring within the Anypoint Platform.

By using the Anypoint Monitoring agent, organizations can effectively monitor their Mule applications across various environments, ensuring visibility and operational efficiency.
