ISC CISSP-ISSMP - Information Systems Security Management Professional Sample Questions (Q198-Q203):

NEW QUESTION # 198

Shoulder surfing is a type of in-person attack in which the attacker gathers information about the premises of an organization. This attack is often performed by looking surreptitiously at the keyboard of an employee's computer while he is typing in his password at any access point such as a terminal/Web site. Which of the following is violated in a shoulder surfing attack?

- A. Integrity
- B. Availability
- C. Authenticity
- D. Confidentiality

Answer: D

Explanation:

Confidentiality is violated in a shoulder surfing attack. The CIA triad provides the following three tenets for which security practices are measured.

Confidentiality. It is the property of preventing disclosure of information to unauthorized individuals or systems. Breaches of confidentiality take many forms. Permitting someone to look over your shoulder at your computer screen while you have confidential data displayed on it could be a breach of confidentiality. If a laptop computer containing sensitive information about a company's employees is stolen or sold, it could result in a breach of confidentiality. Integrity. It means that data cannot be modified without authorization. Integrity is violated when an employee accidentally or with malicious intent deletes important data files, when a computer virus infects a computer, when an employee is able to modify his own salary in a payroll database, when an unauthorized user vandalizes a web site, when someone is able to cast a very large number of votes in an online poll, and so on.

Availability. It means that data must be available at every time when it is needed. Answer option D is incorrect. Authenticity is not a tenet of the CIA triad.

NEW QUESTION # 199

Which of the following BEST describes the PRIMARY reason ISSMP places emphasis on both "law/regulatory knowledge" and "leadership skills" rather than purely technical depth?

- A. Effective security leaders must navigate legal, regulatory, and organizational complexity while aligning security strategy with business and compliance obligations - a management, not purely technical, competency
- B. Leadership skills have no bearing on regulatory compliance outcomes
- C. Technical depth is irrelevant to information security management
- D. Legal knowledge is the sole responsibility of external counsel and irrelevant to security managers

Answer: A

Explanation:

This reflects ISSMP's core identity as a management/leadership certification - professionals at this level must integrate legal, regulatory, business, and organizational considerations into strategic security decision-making, not just execute technical controls.

NEW QUESTION # 200

You are the project manager of the HJK Project for your organization. You and the project team have created risk responses for many of the risk events in the project. Where should you document the proposed responses and the current status of all identified risks?
