Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement 2023 Implementation Professional - Delta Sample Questions (Q107-Q112):

NEW QUESTION # 107

When does the closure phase of the application implementation lifecycle occur?

- A. At the beginning of the project
- B. After the planning phase
- C. During the execution phase
- D. At the end of the project

Answer: D

Explanation:

The closure phase of the application implementation lifecycle occurs at the end of the project. It includes activities such as completing the implementation, transitioning the application to the support team, conducting user training, documenting the project, and conducting a project review or post-implementation evaluation. This phase signifies the end of the implementation process and the transition to ongoing support and maintenance of the application.

NEW QUESTION # 108

What is the purpose of the Contract Terms Library in Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement?

- A. It allows users to create and store standard terms and conditions for contracts.
- B. It enables users to track and manage contract milestones and obligations.
- C. It provides a centralized repository for managing supplier contracts.
- D. It facilitates the automation of contract creation and approval processes.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Contract Terms Library in Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement is designed to provide a central location for creating, storing, and managing standard terms and conditions that can be used across multiple contracts. This feature allows users to define and maintain standard contract clauses, which can be easily accessed and added to new contracts as needed.

NEW QUESTION # 109

What is the purpose of the Default Roles feature in Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement?

- A. To set up default roles for all users in the procurement system
- B. To grant temporary access to additional roles for users
- C. To assign specific roles to supplier users during registration
- D. To automatically assign roles to buyers in the purchasing department

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Default Roles feature in Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement is used to set up default roles for all users in the procurement system. These roles are then automatically assigned to new users based on their assigned job or position. It helps streamline user access provisioning and ensures consistent role assignments across the organization. Assigning specific roles to supplier users during registration, automatically assigning roles to buyers, and granting temporary access to additional roles are separate processes and functionalities within the system.

NEW QUESTION # 110

What is a content map in the context of Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement?

- A. A configuration option for requisitioning rules
- B. An integration interface between Oracle Fusion Procurement and external systems
- C. A mapping between supplier catalogs and procurement catalogs
- D. A mapping between suppliers and catalog items

Answer: C

Explanation:

A content map in Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement represents the mapping between supplier catalogs and procurement catalogs. It ensures that the procurement catalog displays the correct items and pricing from the designated supplier catalog, enabling accurate and up-to-date purchasing information. -

NEW QUESTION # 111

When developing training plans for Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement implementation, what should be the primary focus?

- A. Aligning training with organizational change management strategy.
- B. Providing detailed technical documentation for end-users.
- C. Creating user-friendly training materials.
- D. Conducting comprehensive system testing.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When developing training plans for Oracle Fusion Cloud Procurement implementation, the primary focus should be on aligning training with the organizational change management strategy. This involves understanding how the implementation will impact the organization, its processes, and its employees. By aligning training with the change management strategy, the project team ensures that end-users are adequately prepared to adopt and embrace the new system, leading to a successful implementation.
