Splunk Certified Cybersecurity Defense Analyst Sample Questions (Q16-Q21):

NEW QUESTION # 16

What feature of Splunk Security Essentials (SSE) allows an analyst to see a listing of current on-boarded data sources in Splunk so they can view content based on available data?

- A. Data Source Onboarding Guides
- B. Security Data Journey
- C. Security Content
- D. Data Inventory

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 17

In SPL, streaming commands operate on each individual event. There are two types of streaming commands: distributable and centralized. Which of the following statements is true about search efficiency using streaming commands?

- A. Distributable commands should come before centralized commands, since that will distribute the bulk of the work amongst all the search heads.
- B. Distributable commands should come before centralized commands, since that will distribute the bulk of the work amongst all the applicable indexers.
- C. Centralized commands should come before distributable commands, since that will spread the bulk of the work amongst all the search heads.
- D. Centralized commands should come before distributable commands, since that will spread the bulk of the work amongst all the applicable indexers.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Distributable streaming commands execute on each indexer in parallel, reducing data early. By placing them before centralized commands (which run afterward on the search head), you push most of the work out to the indexers and minimize the load on the search head.

NEW QUESTION # 18

In Splunk SPL, which command is used to filter and group results based on specific fields?

- A. filter
- B. eval
- C. fields
- D. stats

Answer: D
