ASET Ethics Examination-ASET Professional Practice Exam (PPE) Sample Questions (Q64-Q69):

NEW QUESTION # 64

According to Kant's theory of formalism, when does conflict arise?

- A. When evaluating the benefits of an action, or when trying to distribute the benefits equally.
- B. When individuals claim self-serving "rights".
- C. When there is a clash between extremes of excess and deficiency.
- D. When following a universal principle may cause harm.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Immanuel Kant's theory of Formalism (also known as duty ethics or Deontology) postulates that ethical actions are based strictly on absolute, universal rules or duties, regardless of the consequences.

According to Kant, an act is only good if it follows a principle that could be universally applied to everyone at all times (the Categorical Imperative). For example, "never lie" is a universal rule in Kantian ethics. The primary criticism and the point where conflict arises in Formalism is when rigidly following a universal principle causes obvious, preventable harm. If a murderer asks for the location of their intended victim, the universal rule "never lie" conflicts with the basic human intuition to protect life. Therefore, a strict Kantian would face a severe moral conflict because adhering strictly to the duty (telling the truth) directly results in catastrophic harm. This inflexibility in the face of competing duties or harmful outcomes is the central challenge when applying pure formalism to complex real-world engineering or societal dilemmas.

NEW QUESTION # 65

Under which jurisdiction does the Environmental Protection Act fall?

- A. Provincial law
- B. Federal law
- C. International law
- D. Municipal law

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Canada, environmental regulation is a matter of shared constitutional jurisdiction, meaning both the federal and provincial governments have authority over different aspects of the environment. However, when referencing general "Environmental Protection Acts" that directly govern local industrial operations, land use, localized emissions, waste management, and resource extraction, these fall primarily under Provincial law. For example, in Alberta, the primary overarching environmental statute is the Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act (EPEA). Each province has its own equivalent Environmental Protection Act tailored to its specific regional resources and industries.

While the federal government does enforce the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA), which targets toxic substances of national concern and interprovincial/international pollution, the day-to-day regulatory compliance, site assessments, and localized environmental permitting that most ASET technologists interact with are strictly governed and enforced under provincial jurisdiction.

NEW QUESTION # 66

Employment equity means that fair and equal access to employment opportunities is available to which of the following groups?

- A. All members of a society.
- B. Underrepresented employees in an organization.
- C. Underrepresented members of a society.
- D. All employees in an organization.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Canadian employment law, "Employment Equity" refers specifically to proactive programs and legal frameworks (such as the federal Employment Equity Act) designed to ensure fair and equal access to employment opportunities for specific underrepresented and historically disadvantaged groups in society. Unlike general human rights legislation that broadly prohibits discrimination against anyone, employment equity actively seeks to identify and eliminate systemic barriers in the workplace. The legislation specifically targets four designated groups that have historically faced severe underrepresentation and systemic discrimination: women, Aboriginal peoples (Indigenous peoples), persons with disabilities, and members of visible minorities. The goal of employment equity is not to give preferential treatment to unqualified individuals, but rather to ensure that qualified individuals from these underrepresented societal groups have a genuinely equal opportunity to participate and advance in the workforce, thereby creating a workplace that accurately reflects the diversity of the Canadian public.

NEW QUESTION # 67

If a complaint is settled with the assistance of a mediator, the Investigative Committee may proceed with a preliminary investigation under which legislation?

- A. Section 47 of the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act
- B. Section 38 of the Workers' Compensation Act
- C. Section 22 of the Occupational Health and Safety Act
- D. Section 5 of the ASET Code of Ethics

Answer: A

Explanation:

The legal framework governing the disciplinary procedures for professional technologists and engineers in Alberta is strictly dictated by provincial statute, specifically the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act (EGPA). All processes relating to complaints, mediation, preliminary investigations, and disciplinary hearings derive their legal authority entirely from this Act. When a complaint is lodged against an ASET member, the Act provides mechanisms for alternative dispute resolution, such as mediation, to resolve less severe conflicts between members or clients amicably.

However, even if a matter is settled privately through mediation, the regulatory body retains its paramount duty to protect the public. Under Section 47 of the EGPA, the Investigative Committee reserves the statutory right to proceed with a preliminary investigation anyway, to ensure that no systemic incompetence, severe ethical breaches, or ongoing threats to public safety are swept under the rug by a private settlement. The Code of Ethics and OHS Acts do not contain these specific procedural mechanisms for ASET discipline.

NEW QUESTION # 68

A regulated member is cancelled for non-payment of dues but is planning to reinstate as a C.E.T. member. Which of the following actions should the cancelled member take?

- A. No action is required by the member.
- B. Keep the C.E.T. designation on business cards and signatures but notify the employer that reinstatement is required.
- C. Discontinue use of the C.E.T. designation until being reinstated.
- D. Notify ASET and continue to use the C.E.T designation until being reinstated.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Under the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act (EGPA), professional designations such as C.E.T., C.Tech., and P.Tech. are strictly legally protected titles. The right to use these titles is a privilege granted exclusively to individuals who maintain their registration in good standing with the regulatory body (ASET). Maintaining good standing inherently includes fulfilling all administrative obligations, such as the payment of annual membership dues and completing CPD. If a member's registration is cancelled for non-payment-even if they intend to pay and reinstate shortly-they immediately lose the legal right to practice under that title. Continuing to use the designation on business cards, email signatures, or professional documents while cancelled (Options C and D) is an act of misrepresentation and a violation of provincial law. The only legally and ethically compliant action is to immediately discontinue all use of the C.E.T. designation until the dues are paid and official confirmation of reinstatement is received from the ASET Registrar.
