NEW QUESTION # 65

SCENARIO

Carol was a U.S.-based glassmaker who sold her work at art festivals. She kept things simple by only accepting cash and personal checks.

As business grew, Carol couldn't keep up with demand, and traveling to festivals became burdensome. Carol opened a small boutique and hired Sam to run it while she worked in the studio. Sam was a natural salesperson, and business doubled. Carol told Sam, "I don't know what you are doing, but keep doing it!" But months later, the gift shop was in chaos. Carol realized that Sam needed help so she hired Jane, who had business expertise and could handle the back-office tasks. Sam would continue to focus on sales. Carol gave Jane a few weeks to get acquainted with the artisan craft business, and then scheduled a meeting for the three of them to discuss Jane's first impressions.

At the meeting, Carol could not wait to hear Jane's thoughts, but she was unprepared for what Jane had to say.

"Carol, I know that he doesn't realize it, but some of Sam's efforts to increase sales have put you in a vulnerable position. You are not protecting customers' personal information like you should." Sam said, "I am protecting our information. I keep it in the safe with our bank deposit. It's only a list of customers' names, addresses and phone numbers that I get from their checks before I deposit them. I contact them when you finish a piece that I think they would like. That's the only information I have! The only other thing I do is post photos and information about your work on the photo sharing site that I use with family and friends. I provide my email address and people send me their information if they want to see more of your work. Posting online really helps sales, Carol. In fact, the only complaint I hear is about having to come into the shop to make a purchase." Carol replied, "Jane, that doesn't sound so bad. Could you just fix things and help us to post even more online?"

"I can," said Jane. "But it's not quite that simple. I need to set up a new program to make sure that we follow the best practices in data management. And I am concerned for our customers. They should be able to manage how we use their personal information. We also should develop a social media strategy." Sam and Jane worked hard during the following year. One of the decisions they made was to contract with an outside vendor to manage online sales. At the end of the year, Carol shared some exciting news. "Sam and Jane, you have done such a great job that one of the biggest names in the glass business wants to buy us out!

And Jane, they want to talk to you about merging all of our customer and vendor information with theirs beforehand." What type of principles would be the best guide for Jane's ideas regarding a new data management program?

- A. Fair Information Practice Principles

- B. Incident preparedness principles.
- C. Collection limitation principles.
- D. Vendor management principles.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Fair Information Practice Principles (FIPPs) are a set of guidelines that govern the collection and handling of personal data to ensure privacy and data protection. Jane's ideas regarding a new data management program would be best guided by FIPPs, which emphasize transparency, data minimization, purpose specification, and security, among other principles.

NEW QUESTION # 66

Which is NOT a drawback to using a biometric recognition system?

- A. It can be more expensive than other systems.
- B. It has limited compatibility across systems.
- C. It is difficult for people to use.
- D. It can require more maintenance and support.

NEW QUESTION # 67

Which of the following statements is true regarding software notifications and agreements?

- A. "Just in time" software agreement notifications provide users with a final opportunity to modify the agreement.
- B. Website visitors must view the site's privacy statement before downloading software.
- C. Software agreements are designed to be brief, while notifications provide more details.
- D. It is a good practice to provide users with information about privacy prior to software installation.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The practice of providing users with privacy information before they install software aligns with the principle of transparency, a key concept in information privacy. This principle dictates that users should be fully informed about what personal data is being collected and how it will be used before they engage with software or services. Providing this information up front helps users make informed decisions about their data and ensures compliance with privacy laws and regulations. This approach is often outlined in guidelines from privacy frameworks such as the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and reflected in the practices advocated by the International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP).

NEW QUESTION # 68

What risk is mitigated when routing meeting video traffic through a company's application servers rather than sending the video traffic directly from one user to another?

- A. The user's identity is protected from the other user
- B. The user is protected against cyberstalking attacks
- C. The user's IP address is hidden from the other user
- D. The user is assured that stronger authentication methods have been used

Answer: C

Explanation:

Routing meeting video traffic through a company's application servers rather than sending it directly from one user to another mitigates the risk of exposing the user's IP address to the other user. By routing traffic through a centralized server, the direct exchange of IP addresses between users is avoided, thereby enhancing privacy and security. The IAPP's CIPT resources discuss network security measures and their importance in protecting user identities and preventing cyber threats like IP tracking and exposure.
