WGU Network-and-Security-Foundation Sample Questions (Q48-Q53):

NEW QUESTION # 48
When setting up a network, a technician needs a router that connects computers together and connects computers to the internet. Which router should be used?

- A. Inter-provider border router
- B. Subscriber edge router
- C. Core router

- D. Broadband router

Answer: D

Explanation:
A broadband router is a type of network router that connects multiple computers within a local network while also providing internet access. It functions as a gateway between the local network and the internet by handling data packet transmission and routing. Broadband routers are widely used in small offices and homes because they offer essential networking services, including DHCP, NAT, and sometimes wireless connectivity.
* Inter-provider border routersare used by ISPs to route data between different providers and do not serve as an internet gateway for end users.
* Subscriber edge routersare typically deployed at the edge of an ISP's network to connect subscriber networks but do not provide full internet routing functionalities.
* Core routersoperate at the backbone level of a network, facilitating high-speed data transfer but not connecting end-user devices directly.

NEW QUESTION # 49
An organization is updating its information security policies in order to comply with thePersonal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA).
What should this organization expect to be required under this legislation?

- A. Securely dispose of personally identifiable information
- B. Disclose the software used to protect personal data
- C. Compensate individuals for revenue from the sale of their information
- D. Notify individuals each time their personal information is viewed

Answer: A

Explanation:
PIPEDArequires businesses in Canada to protectpersonal informationthrough security measures andproper disposal practices. This includessecure deletion of personal data when no longer neededto prevent unauthorized access.
* Compensating individuals for data salesis not a legal requirement.
* Notifying individuals of each data accessis unnecessary unless required by a breach.
* Disclosing security softwareis not mandated by PIPEDA.

NEW QUESTION # 50
After recently experiencing a security breach, a company is working on improving its database security. As a part of its security governance strategies, the company is developing a database security checklist.
Which component is important to include in this checklist?

- A. Restricting physical access to locations where data is housed
- B. Outsourcing data management to third-party vendors
- C. Disclosing any instances of breaches of personal data
- D. Developing algorithms for secure access to data

Answer: A

Explanation:
Restricting physical accessto data storage facilities is a critical part of database security. Even with strong cybersecurity measures,unauthorized physical accessto servers can lead to breaches. Security strategies includebiometric authentication, surveillance cameras, and restricted entry zones.
* Disclosing breachesis required by compliance laws but does not protect data proactively.
* Developing algorithmsimproves security but is not a fundamental checklist item.
* Outsourcing data managementcan introduce security risks if not properly controlled.

NEW QUESTION # 51
An attacker uses a list of commonly used access credentials to attempt to gain access to an online account.
Which malicious attack strategy is represented in the scenario?

- A. Credential stuffing
- B. Social engineering
- C. Dictionary attack
- D. Phishing

Answer: C

Explanation:
Adictionary attackis a password-cracking method that systematically tries common words, phrases, and predictable passwords (e.g., "password123", "admin2024") to gain access to an account. Attackers often compile large lists of weak or reused passwords.
* Phishingtricks users into revealing passwords but does not systematically test multiple words.
* Credential stuffinguses breached passwords rather than guessing from a list.
* Social engineeringmanipulates users but does not rely on automated password attempts.

NEW QUESTION # 52
A company is specifically worried about buffer overflow attacks.
Which strategy should be used as a mitigation against this type of attack?

- A. Use server-side validation
- B. Disable caching
- C. Detect code vulnerabilities
- D. Implement intrusion protection software

Answer: C

Explanation:
Detecting code vulnerabilitiesthroughregular security audits, code reviews, and static analysis toolshelps prevent buffer overflow attacks. Developers should implementbounds checking,memory-safe programming languages, and input validationto mitigate risks.
* Disabling cachingdoes not prevent buffer overflow attacks.
* Server-side validationhelps with input security but does not directly address buffer overflows.
* Intrusion protection softwaremay detect attacks but does not prevent vulnerabilities in code.
