AACN Critical Care Nursing Exam Sample Questions (Q42-Q47):

NEW QUESTION # 42

A mother brings her 26 month-old to the well-child clinic. She expresses frustration due to her baby's constantly saying "NO" and his refusal to follow her directions. The nurse explains this is normal for his age, as negativism is attempting to meet which developmental need:

- A. role confusion
- B. independence
- C. initiative
- D. self-esteem

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation: According to Erick Erikson's developmental theory, toddlers struggle to assert independence. They often use the word "no" even when they mean yes. This stage is called autonomy vs. shame and doubt.

NEW QUESTION # 43

An adolescent with recurrent leukemia expresses a desire to die peacefully. Weeks later, the patient is critically ill and the parents ask whether to escalate care. The nurse's most appropriate response is:

- A. "I will support whatever decision you decide upon."
- B. "As I remember, your child expressed a desire to die peacefully."
- C. "Legally you have the right to make that decision."
- D. "Perhaps try one more day of treatment to see if there are any changes in condition."

Answer: A

Explanation:

This situation represents a conflict between adolescent autonomy and parental authority. The nurse must maintain an nonjudgmental, supportive role, allowing the family to explore values and make informed decisions without imposing interpretation.

"In end-of-life situations, nurses should offer emotional support, facilitate shared decision-making, and respect family values.

Supporting the decision-regardless of direction-is key." (Referenced from CCRN Pediatric - Professional Caring and Ethical Practice: End-of-Life Ethics and Family- Centered Care)

NEW QUESTION # 44

A child with ALL presents 1 week after chemo, fatigued and hypothermic. Initial expected nursing intervention?

- A. Administer IV antibiotics
- B. Obtain blood cultures
- C. Obtain PET scan
- D. Administer red blood cells

Answer: B

Explanation:

Neutropenic fever or hypothermia is a medical emergency in oncology patients. Blood cultures should always be obtained before starting antibiotics to guide therapy. Hypothermia can be a sign of sepsis in immunocompromised children.

"First steps in febrile neutropenia evaluation include obtaining blood cultures before initiating antibiotics to allow pathogen identification and targeted treatment." (Referenced from CCRN Pediatric - Direct Care: Hematology, Oncology Emergencies and Infection Management)

NEW QUESTION # 45

A child possibly has pinworm infestation because he reported that he first felt:

- A. anal itching
- B. loose bowel movement
- C. scaly skin patches
- D. maculopapular rash

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation: With enterobiasis, the adult worm lays her eggs around the anal opening, producing an irritation and thus an itch.

NEW QUESTION # 46

Roy, a 12-month-old child, developed Reye Syndrome. His mother asks the nurse to define the illness.

The nurse's best initial response must be that it is:

- A. an infection caused by bacteria
- B. an idiopathic disorder
- C. linked to genetic disorder.
- D. an illness primarily affecting the infant's brain.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation: This is an honest response which forms the basis for the rest of the teaching, it will be more complex as parents progress in understanding the disorder. The disorder is not caused by a bacteria or a genetic disorder.
