Psychiatric Rehabilitation Association Certified Psychiatric Rehabilitation Practitioner Sample Questions (Q68-Q73):

NEW QUESTION # 68

An individual with a psychiatric disability has been taking a psychotropic medication that has been effective in reducing the intensity of psychotic symptoms but has caused weight gain and high cholesterol. The individual expresses concern to his practitioner regarding his newly developed medical conditions but feels they are unavoidable. The practitioner's BEST response would be to

- A. assist the individual in choosing between having a stable mental health status or a good physical health status.
- B. provide education on metabolic syndrome and discuss how to talk about his concerns with his primary physician and psychiatrist.
- C. remind the individual that he is not alone in dealing with declining physical health and inform him of the prevalence of the issue.
- D. express support of the individual's feelings about his medical conditions, but emphasize the positive changes in his mental health.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Supporting holistic health, particularly when addressing side effects of psychotropic medications, is a critical competency in psychiatric rehabilitation. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain VII: Supporting Health & Wellness) emphasizes educating individuals about health conditions and facilitating communication with healthcare providers (Task VII.A.2: "Provide education on health conditions and treatment options"). Option A (provide education on metabolic syndrome and discuss how to talk about his concerns with his primary physician and psychiatrist) aligns with this task by empowering the individual with knowledge about metabolic syndrome—a common side effect of antipsychotics characterized by weight gain, high cholesterol, and increased diabetes risk—and supporting collaborative care with medical professionals to explore management options (e.g., lifestyle changes or medication adjustments).

Option B (choosing between mental and physical health) is inappropriate, as it presents a false dichotomy and contradicts recovery-oriented principles that integrate both mental and physical health (Domain V). Option C (emphasizing mental health over physical concerns) dismisses the individual's valid concerns, violating person-centered care principles (Domain I). Option D (highlighting prevalence) normalizes the issue but fails to provide actionable steps, unlike Option A. The PRA Study Guide underscores the importance of holistic health education and advocacy, reinforcing Option A.

NEW QUESTION # 69

An individual living in an agency-owned residence is not following the rules of the house. After multiple warnings, the individual continues to break the rules. He expresses dissatisfaction with the residence. The infractions are causing a safety risk for others in the home. The agency's BEST approach would be to

- A. refer him to the local shelter.
- B. assist him in locating a living environment that will work with his behavior.
- C. refer him to a higher level of care.
- D. encourage him to change his behavior through a reward system.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When an individual in an agency-owned residence repeatedly breaks rules, causing safety risks, and expresses dissatisfaction, the agency must prioritize person-centered, recovery-oriented solutions that support community integration. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration) emphasizes assisting individuals in finding housing that aligns with their needs and preferences to promote stability and safety (Task III.A.1: "Support individuals in accessing and maintaining stable housing"). Option B (assist him in locating a living environment that will work with his behavior) aligns with this by addressing the individual's dissatisfaction and safety concerns through a collaborative process to find a more suitable living arrangement, such as independent housing or a setting with different rules or supports that better match his behavior and needs.

Option A (refer to a local shelter) is not recovery-oriented, as it risks homelessness and destabilization, contradicting community integration principles. Option C (refer to a higher level of care) assumes a clinical need without evidence and may not address the individual's dissatisfaction or housing mismatch. Option D (encourage behavior change through rewards) does not address the underlying issue of dissatisfaction or ensure safety for others, as the behavior persists despite warnings. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes person-centered housing solutions to resolve conflicts and promote stability, supporting Option B.

NEW QUESTION # 70

A woman with a psychiatric disability attempts to rent an apartment. She completes the application and lists her income as disability benefits of $750 per month. She is turned down because of an "unstable income source." What is the best referral the practitioner can make to help her address this situation?

- A. Peer support organization
- B. Family advocacy group
- C. Government benefits agency
- D. Legal advocacy group

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question aligns with Domain III: Community Integration, which focuses on supporting individuals to access community resources, such as housing, and addressing barriers like discrimination. The CPRP Exam Blueprint emphasizes "advocating for fair housing practices and referring individuals to appropriate resources to address discrimination or barriers to community integration." The scenario involves potential discrimination based on the source of income (disability benefits), which violates fair housing laws in many jurisdictions.

* Option A: Referring the woman to a legal advocacy group is the best response, as it equips her to address potential discrimination under fair housing laws (e.g., the Fair Housing Act in the U.S., which prohibits discrimination based on disability or income source in some states). Legal advocacy groups can provide expertise to challenge the landlord's decision and secure housing access.

* Option B: A peer support organization may offer emotional support but lacks the legal expertise to address housing discrimination effectively.

* Option C: A family advocacy group may not be relevant unless family members are directly involved, and it does not address the legal issue of discrimination.

* Option D: A government benefits agency could clarify her benefits but does not address the landlord's discriminatory decision, which is the primary barrier.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration):

"Tasks include: 3. Supporting individuals in accessing housing and addressing barriers, such as discrimination. 4. Referring individuals to advocacy resources to ensure fair treatment in community settings."

NEW QUESTION # 71

A practitioner mentions to her supervisor that she is struggling to connect with an individual. She tells her supervisor that he is difficult to engage because he is always texting during their meetings. The BEST response from the supervisor is,

- A. request that he not bring his phone to their meetings.
- B. ask the individual to make eye contact.
- C. communicate with the individual via a text message.
- D. sit quietly until he is ready to talk.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Building effective relationships requires interpersonal competencies that adapt to an individual's communication preferences and behaviors. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies) emphasizes using flexible, person-centered strategies to engage individuals in a manner that respects their needs and preferences (Task I.B.3: "Adapt communication strategies to build trust and engagement"). Option B (communicate with the individual via a text message) aligns with this by meeting the individual where he is—using his preferred mode of communication (texting)—to foster connection and build rapport, which can later transition to in-person engagement.

Option A (ask for eye contact) is prescriptive and may alienate the individual, ignoring his comfort with texting. Option C (request no phone) dismisses his communication preference and risks disengagement.

Option D (sit quietly) is passive and does not actively address the barrier to connection. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes adapting to individual communication styles as a key engagement strategy, supporting Option B.

NEW QUESTION # 72

A person utilizing psychiatric rehabilitation services meets with a fellow program participant to assist her in accessing employment services. This is an example of

- A. vocational readiness.
- B. rehabilitation readiness.
- C. interdisciplinary support.
- D. peer support.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Peer support involves individuals with lived experience of mental health challenges assisting others in their recovery journey, fostering hope and practical guidance. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain V: Strategies for Facilitating Recovery) highlights peer support as a key strategy for empowering individuals to achieve recovery goals, such as accessing employment services (Task V.B.3: "Utilize peer support to promote recovery and rehabilitation goals"). Option A (peer support) aligns with this, as the program participant, a peer, is helping another individual navigate employment services, leveraging shared experiences to provide guidance and encouragement.

Option B (rehabilitation readiness) refers to preparing an individual for rehabilitation goals, not the act of peer assistance. Option C (vocational readiness) focuses on the individual's preparedness for work, not the peer's role in supporting access to services. Option D (interdisciplinary support) involves professional collaboration, not peer-based assistance. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes peer support's role in recovery-oriented service delivery, supporting Option A.
