AACN Critical Care Nursing Exam Sample Questions (Q129-Q134):

NEW QUESTION # 129

What would a nurse expect to see while assessing the growth of Daniel who is in 4th grade primary school?

- A. On going- height increase of 4 inches per year
- B. Weight gain of 5.5 lbs a year
- C. No change in body appearance on a yearly basis
- D. Low amount of body fat and muscle mass

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation: School age children gain about 5.5 lbs per year and gain about 2 inches in height.

NEW QUESTION # 130

Systemic Inflammatory Response Syndrome (SIRS) is characterized by:

- A. Vasoconstriction and decreased capillary permeability
- B. Vasoconstriction and increased capillary permeability
- C. Vasodilation and increased capillary permeability
- D. Vasodilation and decreased capillary permeability

Answer: C

Explanation:

SIRS leads to widespread vasodilation and increased capillary permeability, which causes fluid shifting, hypotension, and potential multi-organ dysfunction. This systemic response is part of the pathophysiology of sepsis and MODS.

"SIRS involves a cytokine-mediated vasodilatory response with increased capillary permeability, leading to third-spacing, hypoperfusion, and potential organ dysfunction." (Referenced from CCRN Pediatric - Direct Care: Multisystem, Inflammatory Cascade in Sepsis)

NEW QUESTION # 131

An 8-year-old patient who sustained intracerebral hemorrhage after a traumatic incident was intubated in the field. Head CT scan showed a 5 mm midline shift. The patient is difficult to arouse but pulls away from noxious stimuli. The most concerning sign of clinical deterioration is:

- A. Pupils are 5 mm and reactive bilaterally
- B. Cerebral perfusion pressure (CPP) of 55 mm Hg
- C. BP 138/98 with HR of 50
- D. Ecchymosis over the mastoid processes

Answer: C

Explanation:

Arising blood pressure with bradycardia (Cushing's triad) suggests increased intracranial pressure and impending herniation. This is the most critical and time-sensitive sign of neurologic deterioration.

"Signs of increased ICP and impending herniation include bradycardia, hypertension, and irregular respiration. These warrant immediate intervention to prevent irreversible brain injury." (Referenced from CCRN Pediatric - Direct Care: Neurological Trauma and Intracranial Hypertension)

NEW QUESTION # 132

The mother of a 16-month-old child who is coughing and having trouble breathing calls the clinic to ask advice because she suspects that her child has croup. Which of the following instructions would be most appropriate?

- A. Administer acetaminophen (Tylenol) every 4 hours
- B. Take the child into the bathroom and run the hot water
- C. Get the child to take as much fluid as possible
- D. Give over-the-counter cough syrup every 6 hours

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation: For a child with croup who is coughing and having difficulty breathing, the child should be taken into the shower where hot water is running to make the bathroom steamy. Steam helps to loosen secretion and relieve some of the respiratory distress. Giving acetaminophen is helpful but will not ease difficult breathing. Giving over-the-counter cough syrup is inappropriate because the underlying problem is airway inflammation and subsequent mucus accumulation and bronchoconstriction. Getting the child to take as much fluid as possible is important but it will not be effective in easing difficult breathing.

NEW QUESTION # 133

A 5-month-old was diagnosed with intussusception. What assessment would be a priority to assist in confirming the diagnosis?

- A. auscultate the bowel sounds.
- B. measure the intake and output
- C. observe for high-pitch cry
- D. assess characteristics of stool

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation: intussusception creates intestinal obstruction because the intestine "telescopes" and becomes trapped. Stools are red and currant jelly-like from the mixing of stool with blood and mucus.
