In the Microsoft Purview compliance portal, administrators can tailor the user experience to match the roles and responsibilities of users in the organization. One key feature provided to enable this customization is the "Customize navigation" option.

According to Microsoft's Security, Compliance, and Identity (SCI) learning paths and SC-series certification materials (especially SC-400 and SC-900), the Customize navigation option in the Microsoft Purview compliance portal is used to add, remove, or rearrange features in the navigation pane. This is especially useful for compliance or security administrators who want to streamline the portal for ease of use or hide sections that are not relevant to their work.

The SCI documentation states:

"The Microsoft Purview compliance portal provides a Customize navigation option that allows admins to personalize the left-hand navigation pane. This feature supports removing unused features or rearranging the order in which services appear, improving navigation efficiency and reducing clutter." This setting does not change permissions or access to features but purely controls the visibility and layout for users. The other listed options like Compliance Manager, Policies, and Settings are functional sections of the portal, but only "Customize navigation" is explicitly designed to manage the visual layout and visibility of the features shown in the portal's navigation pane.

NEW QUESTION # 160

For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

Microsoft's identity platform (Microsoft Entra ID, formerly Azure AD) supports built-in and custom directory roles. The official guidance states that you can "create your own custom roles to grant permissions for management of Microsoft Entra resources," and those roles consist of specific role permissions that you select to tailor least-privilege administration. The documentation also lists Global administrator (formerly Company Administrator) as a built-in role that "has access to all administrative features" and can delegate role assignments, reset passwords for all users, and manage identity settings across the tenant. Regarding assignments, Microsoft is explicit that role assignment is many-to-many: administrators can "assign one or more roles to a user," and the user's effective permissions are the union of the privileges from all assigned roles. Consequently, (1) creating custom roles is supported (Yes), (2) Global administrator is indeed a defined Azure AD/Microsoft Entra role (Yes), and (3) a user being limited to only one role is incorrect (No) because multiple role assignments to the same user are permitted and commonly used to implement least privilege and separation of duties.

Box 1: Yes

Azure AD supports custom roles.

Box 2: Yes

Global Administrator has access to all administrative features in Azure Active Directory. Box 3: No Reference:
