Cloudera CDP Data Engineer - Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q285-Q290):

NEW QUESTION # 285
In a multi-tenant Hive environment, how can administrators mitigate the impact of skewed data distributions across bucketed tables to maintain consistent query performance?

- A. Limiting the number of tenants allowed to create bucketed tables.
- B. Enforcing a uniform bucket size at the HDFS level, irrespective of the data distribution.
- C. Disabling bucketing features entirely to prevent skewed distributions.
- D. By periodically rebalancing data across buckets using custom scripts or tools.

Answer: D

Explanation:
To mitigate the impact of skewed data distributions across bucketed tables in a multi-tenant Hive environment and maintain consistent query performance, administrators can periodically rebalance data across buckets. This might involve using custom scripts or tools to analyze the distribution of data and redistribute it more evenly across the buckets. Such rebalancing helps to ensure that no single bucket becomes a bottleneck due to having a disproportionately large amount of data, thereby maintaining the efficiency of bucketing for performance optimization. Limiting tenants, enforcing uniform bucket sizes at the HDFS level, or disabling bucketing are not practical solutions for addressing skewed data distributions.

NEW QUESTION # 286
What is a potential downside of overly granular partitioning in Hive tables?

- A. Reduced query performance due to metadata overhead
- B. Increased data security
- C. Simplified data management
- D. Automatic data deduplication

Answer: A

Explanation:
Overly granular partitioning in Hive tables can lead to a large number of partitions, which increases the metadata that Hive needs to manage. This can negatively impact query performance because Hive must load and process this extensive metadata before executing queries, potentially leading to slower response times.

NEW QUESTION # 287
You notice degraded read performance on an Iceberg table after many updates and deletes. What maintenance task should you perform to improve this?

- A. Rebuild the Iceberg metadata table
- B. Compact data files
- C. Delete old snapshots
- D. Rewrite manifest files

Answer: D

Explanation:
Iceberg's "rewrite manifests" procedure consolidates metadata, eliminates stale entries, and can significantly improve read performance for heavily modified tables.

NEW QUESTION # 288
What is the significance of "Sort Merge Join" appearing in an Explain Plan in Cloudera's SQL engines?

- A. It indicates that the query will benefit from additional indexes
- B. It signifies that the join operation is performed by sorting and then merging two datasets, which can be efficient for large, sorted datasets
- C. It is the least preferred join method due to its high CPU usage
- D. It suggests that the join operation is performed without sorting, leading to faster execution

Answer: B

Explanation:
A). "Sort Merge Join" involves sorting two datasets and then merging them based on the join condition. This method can be efficient for large datasets that are already sorted or partially sorted, as it leverages the order of data to reduce the computational overhead of the join operation.

NEW QUESTION # 289
If you want to set a minimum and maximum number of Executor pods for a Spark application in Kubernetes, which pair of PySpark configuration settings would you use?

- A. 'spark.kubernetes.container.image', 'spark.kubernetes.executor.limit.cores'
- B. 'spark.executor.memory', 'spark.executor.memoryoverhead'

- C. 'spark.dynamicAllocation.minExecutors', 'spark.dynamicAllocation.maxExecutors'
- D. 'spark.executor.instances', 'spark.executor.cores'

Answer: C

Explanation:
The settings 'spark.dynamicAllocation.minExecutors' and 'spark.dynamicAllocation.maxExecutors' are used to define the minimum and maximum number of Executor pods that can be dynamically allocated in a Spark application running on Kubernetes.
