Oracle CX Sales 2024 Implementation Professional Sample Questions (Q48-Q53):

NEW QUESTION # 48

Which of the following methods can be used to explicitly define a hierarchy for a Dimension in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service 2023?

- A. Creating a hierarchy file in the PBCS format and importing to the dimension editor
- B. Manually creating a parent-child hierarchy in dimension editor from the imported flat file format
- C. Creating a parent-child hierarchy in the source system, then importing to PBCS as a flat file format
- D. Creating a parent-child hierarchy in PBCS as part of importing the data from source systems

Answer: A

Explanation:

Option 1: This option is incorrect. While creating a parent-child hierarchy is a valid method, flat file formats cannot define a hierarchy, which is required for effective dimension management. Option 2: This option is incorrect. Creating hierarchies in PBCS, while possible, is usually not recommended as it's generally more efficient to maintain hierarchies in the source systems. Option 3: This option is incorrect. This can be a very time-consuming process, and there is a high probability of errors while creating manually. Also, PBCS offers a lot of powerful functionality to manage hierarchies, which may not be available in the source system or excel. Option 4: This option is correct. Creating custom hierarchies in PBCS requires the creation of a hierarchy file which can be either in the format of a hierarchy definition file (HDF) or a metadata interchange format (MIF) file. These files are specific to PBCS and take advantage of all the productivity-enhancing features of the system.

NEW QUESTION # 49

statements is correct regarding the 'Auto-Match Measures' option?

- A. Auto-Match Measures is a feature that allows for the mapping of measures from the source file to existing Target Application measures during data loading, but it requires that the measure names in the source file match exactly with the measure names in the Target Application.
- B. Auto-Match Measures is a feature that automatically creates new measures in the Target Application if no match can be found based on the source file data during data loading, but it does not support the use of aliases in the source file.
- C. Auto-Match Measures is a feature that automatically matches measures from the source file with existing Target Application measures during data loading, but it can only be used with CSV files.
- D. Auto-Match Measures is a feature that automatically matches measures from the source file with existing Target Application measures during data loading, and it can be used with both CSV and Excel files.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 50

When creating a report in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service, which feature allows you to group data from different dimensions into a single category?

- A. Compound Value
- B. Hierarchy
- C. Custom Calculation
- D. Derived Member

Answer: D

Explanation:

Option 1: Correct. Hierarchy allows you to group data from different dimensions into a single category. It provides a way to organize and structure data in a logical and hierarchical manner. Option 2: Incorrect. Derived Member enables you to create new members in a dimension based on calculations or formulas, but it does not allow you to group data from different dimensions into a single category. Option 3: Incorrect. Compound Value is used to combine or concatenate multiple members from the same dimension into a single value, but it does not allow you to group data from different dimensions. Option 4: Incorrect. Custom Calculation allows you to define custom formulas to perform calculations on data, but it does not provide a way to group data from different dimensions into a single category.

NEW QUESTION # 51

What is the effect of running an allocation job with the 'Aggregate Source Data' option selected?

- A. The allocation will overwrite the source data with aggregated data.
- B. The allocation will use aggregated data instead of raw data for calculations.
- C. The allocation will not run and an error message will be displayed.

- D. The allocation will use raw data for calculations and disregard any aggregated data.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option 1: Correct. Selecting 'Aggregate Source Data' option will use the aggregated data instead of raw data while running the allocation. Option 2: Incorrect. Selecting this option will only use the aggregated data for calculations and will not overwrite the source data. Option 3: Incorrect. Selecting this option does not affect the running of allocation and will not show an error message. Option 4: Incorrect. Selecting this option will use the aggregated data instead of raw data for calculations.

NEW QUESTION # 52

Which costing method in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service 2023 Implementation Professional allows for the allocation of costs using pre-defined allocation drivers?

- A. Variable costing
- B. Job costing
- C. Standard costing
- D. Activity-based costing

Answer: D

Explanation:

Option 1: Correct. The activity-based costing method in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service 2023 Implementation Professional allows for the allocation of costs using pre-defined allocation drivers. This method assigns costs to activities based on their consumption and then allocates those costs to highly specific cost objects. Option 2: Incorrect. Standard costing in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service 2023 Implementation Professional is a traditional costing method that assigns costs to cost objects based on predetermined, standard rates or amounts. Option 3: Incorrect. Variable costing in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service 2023 Implementation Professional is a costing method that assigns only variable manufacturing costs to cost objects, while fixed costs are expensed as incurred. Option 4: Incorrect. Job costing in Oracle Profitability and Cost Management Cloud Service 2023 Implementation Professional is a costing method used for production environments with a large number of distinct, identifiable units or batches.
