Oracle Database 19c: Data Guard Administration Sample Questions (Q98-Q103):

NEW QUESTION # 98

Which three statements are true about Data Guard database modes and states?

- A. The Primary Database can operate in noarchivelog mode.
- B. Databases in a Data Guard Configuration need not operate in Flashback Logging mode.
- C. Force Logging Mode is not required for a primary database but is recommended.
- D. A primary database may ship redo directly to more than nine standby databases.
- E. A Logical Standby Database can be in MOUNT state while applying changes.

Answer: B,C,E

NEW QUESTION # 99

Your current Data Guard environment consists of:

A primary database containing no abstract data types used for user tables.

Two separate remote physical standby databases used for reporting.

Examine these requirements for adding a new standby database to this Data Guard environment:

The new standby database must provide a disaster recovery solution.

There must be minimal additional performance overheads on the primary database.

The new standby database may require additional indexes and materialized views not present in the primary.

New tables or schemas may be required in the standby database that are not present in the primary.

What would you recommend to fulfill these requirements?

- A. A logical standby database with synchronous redo transport and SQL apply on.
- B. A logical standby database with asynchronous redo transport and SQL apply on.
- C. A logical standby database with synchronous redo transport and redo apply on.
- D. A physical standby database with asynchronous redo transport and Real-Time Query enabled.
- E. A physical standby database with synchronous redo transport and Real-Time Query enabled.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 100

Examine the following parameter settings of the physical standby database:

* STANDBY_FILE_MANAGEMENT=AUTO

* ENABLED_PDBS_ON_STANDBY=<null>

During which TWO tasks are files automatically created in the physical standby database after structure changes on the primary database?

- A. Creating a PDB from the existing PDB within the same CDB
- B. Adding a data file or creating a tablespace
- C. Renaming a data file in the primary database
- D. Performing transportable tablespaces
- E. Adding or dropping a redo file group

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

When STANDBY_FILE_MANAGEMENT is set to AUTO, the Oracle Data Guard automatically creates, deletes, and renames files on the standby database to match the changes made on the primary database. The tasks that lead to the automatic creation of files on the standby include:

* Adding a data file or creating a tablespace (C): When a new tablespace is created or a new data file is added on the primary database, the standby database automatically replicates this action, maintaining structural consistency with the primary database.

* Creating a PDB from the existing PDB within the same CDB (D): Creating a new Pluggable Database (PDB) within a Multitenant Container Database (CDB) on the primary database triggers an automatic creation of the corresponding PDB within the standby CDB. References:

NEW QUESTION # 101

Which two are prerequisites for configuring flashback database for Oracle 19c databases, in a Data Guard environment?

- A. A fast recovery area must be configured to flash back a standby when the primary has been flashed back.
- B. The database must be in ARCHIVELOG mode.
- C. The Data Guard real-time apply feature must be enabled.
- D. The data guard broker must be used.
- E. A fast recovery area must be configured.

Answer: B,E

Explanation:

* A fast recovery area must be configured (B): Flashback Database requires a fast recovery area to be set up because flashback logs are stored there. The fast recovery area is a unified storage location for all recovery-related files and activities.

* The database must be in ARCHIVELOG mode (C): Flashback Database operation relies on the ability to archive redo logs. Therefore, the database must be running in ARCHIVELOG mode for Flashback Database to be enabled.

NEW QUESTION # 102

Your Data Guard environment has two remote physical standby databases.

Client applications use the local naming method to define connectivity to the primary database instance.

Which will automatically redirect clients to the new primary database in case of a switchover or failover?

- A. Set the DB_NAME parameter identically on all databases; modify the connection descriptor on the clients to use DB_NAME to connect to the primary database instance.
- B. Set the LOCAL_LISTENER parameter for all the database instances, to register services with the default listener on the primary database host.
- C. Configure a PRIMARY role service on the Primary and Standby and modify the Client connect descriptor to include both the Primary and the Standby.
- D. Create a database service on the standby databases; automate the start of the service after a role change, and modify the connection descriptor on the clients to use that service.

Answer: D
