Oracle Business Intelligence Foundation Suite 11g Essentials Sample Questions (Q92-Q97):

NEW QUESTION # 92

Where is Cache in OBIEE located?

- A. It is local disk-based.
- B. In memory cache
- C. In dynamic aggregate
- D. In relational database

Answer: A

Explanation:

In OBIEE cache will be stored as files on the Hard Disk of the OBIEE Server in the form of files.

NEW QUESTION # 93

Which of the following characteristics pertain to a "ragged" hierarchy?

- A. It creates multiple levels of hierarchy in the database table.
- B. All values can have a maximum of six levels.
- C. It can only be stored in an XML structure.
- D. A branch of the hierarchy may have a different number of levels than other branches.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Ragged Hierarchies are hierarchies where some routes down the hierarchy are longer than others; for example, you may have an organizational hierarchy for salespeople where the overall boss has two assistant managers, one of them works on their own and another has three sales managers under them; some of those sales manager may have sales staff under them, and some sales staff may have trainees under them.

NEW QUESTION # 94

A customer frequently queries multiple dimension tables without a measure. What needs to be defined in the presentation layer?

- A. Custom Display Name
- B. Implicit Fact Column
- C. Alias
- D. Logical Column Name
- E. Logical Key

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

You can define calculations in either of the following ways:

- Before the aggregation, in the logical table source. For example:

`sum(col_A *( col_B))`

- After the aggregation, in a logical column derived from two other logical columns. For example:

`sum(col A) * sum(col B)`

Incorrect answers:

A: Defining the Logical Key of a Fact Table

Foreign Key Logical Joins

If foreign key logical joins are used, the primary key of a logical fact table should then be comprised of the foreign keys. If the physical table does not have a primary key, the logical key for a fact table needs to be made up of the key columns that join to the attribute tables as follows:

1. Look at the foreign keys for the fact table and find references for all of the dimension tables that join to this fact table.

2. Create the logical key of the fact table as a combination of those foreign keys.

B: You can find this functionality in the general property of a subject area in the repository.

The goal of this definition is to guide the BI Server to make the best choice between two possible query paths.

Multiple path occurs when, if you choose two attributes of dimensions that links together to two fact tables.

For instance, this case can occur when you create for instance a constraint dashboard prompt.

To guide OBIEE in the best choice, you need to select a fact attribute (measure) as an implicit fact column.

C: What are the benefits of using Aliases in OBIEE?

It is a best practice to create aliases for all tables. Aliases are created in the Physical Layer of the repository. Some of the benefits of using aliases are given below:

You can create a join relationship which is different than the actual foreign key relationship in the database. This helps in defining relationships to meet business model criteria.

An alias is used to avoid circular joins and to configure self joins. (for more details on Fan Trap and Circular Joins check this blog.)

Aliases can function in numerous ways to define business model e.g. a table can act both as a dimension and a fact using aliases.

You can rename aliases to make physical and business model easier to understand.

NEW QUESTION # 95

When creating a Security Realm in the WebLogic Console, which object is created?

- A. Groups

- B. Single Sign On
- C. Row Level Filters
- D. Server Password

Answer: A

Explanation:

Security Realms are an Oracle Platform Security Services concept and bring together sets of users, groups, providers and so on for a WebLogic domain.

NEW QUESTION # 96

One benefit of adding a second table source that is joined to the first table source in the Physical Layer by a foreign key relationship is that _____.

- A. Two SQL queries are performed to get data from both tables
- B. Multiple SQL queries are performed
- C. A single SQL query is performed to get data from both tables
- D. No SQL queries are performed against the source tables

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

A single query can be performed accessing data from both tables through a join on the columns in the foreign key relation.
