Sample Questions (Q162-Q167):

NEW QUESTION # 162

Which of the following can be considered major components of a process?

- A. Stakeholders, Schedules, Exceptions and Specifications
- B. Subprocess, Tasks, Subtask & Microprocesses
- C. Inputs, Process Flows, Source Applications and Outputs
- D. Actions, Tasks, Subprocesses and Inputs

Answer: C

Explanation:

The major components of a process encompass Inputs, Process Flows, Source Applications, and Outputs. This comprehensive view ensures that all aspects of the process are considered, from the initial inputs through the various steps of the process flow, the applications utilized, to the final outputs. This holistic approach is essential for understanding, analyzing, and automating processes in a manner that is both efficient and effective().

NEW QUESTION # 163

When an application stops responding, what should it be treated as?

- A. System Exception
- B. Business Exception
- C. Unknown Exception
- D. Known Exception

Answer: A

Explanation:

When an application stops responding, this should be treated as a System Exception. System Exceptions refer to errors that occur due to unforeseen issues in the system environment, such as application failures, network errors, or hardware malfunctions, which are beyond the control of the business logic of the automation.

- G. Avoid processes involving heavily mainframe-type applications (green screen)
- H. Avoid applications with user interfaces in other languages than English

Answer: A

Explanation:

The current technical limitations of Task Mining that the Business Analyst must consider prior to implementation include: avoiding Citrix environments, avoiding processes involving heavily mainframe-type applications (green screen), and avoiding applications with user interfaces in languages other than English.

These factors can significantly impact the effectiveness and applicability of Task Mining technologies. References: UiPath Documentation on Task Mining at <https://docs.uipath.com/>.

NEW QUESTION # 165

Which of the following best describes the differences between an "as is" process map and a "to be" process map in the context of RPA (Robotic Process Automation)?

- A. An "as is" process map is used for data analysis, while a "to be" process map is used for process optimization
- B. An "as is" process map shows the current state of a process, while a "to be" process map shows the desired future state of the process
- C. An "as is" process map is used for manual processes, while a "to be" process map is used for automated processes
- D. An "as is" process map shows the steps in a process, while a "to be" process map shows the inputs and outputs for each step

Answer: B

Explanation:

The differences between an "as is" process map and a "to be" process map in the context of RPA are that an "as is" process map shows the current state of a process, while a "to be" process map shows the desired future state of the process after automation has been implemented. This distinction is fundamental as it guides the transformation from manual to automated processes by highlighting necessary changes and enhancements.

NEW QUESTION # 166

What is the difference between Data Labeling and Document Manager?

- A. Data Labeling is used to annotate text data, while Document Manager is used to annotate documents
- B. Data Labeling is used to annotate documents that have been previously uploaded into Document Manager
- C. They are the same product
- D. Data Labeling can only be used to annotate text data for the Custom Named Entity Recognition model

Answer: B

Explanation:

The difference between Data Labeling and Document Manager is that Data Labeling is used to annotate documents that have been previously uploaded into Document Manager. While Document Manager serves as a repository and management system for documents, Data Labeling involves the process of marking these documents to train machine learning models for better data extraction.
