Salesforce Certified Data Architect Sample Questions (Q74-Q79):

NEW QUESTION # 74

Northern Trail Outfitters (NTO) wants to capture a list of customers that have bought a particular product. The solution architect has recommended to create a custom object for product, and to create a lookup relationship between its customers and its products. Products will be modeled as a custom object (NTO_Product__c) and customers are modeled as person accounts. Every NTO product may have millions of customers looking up a single product, resulting in a lookup skew.

What should a data architect suggest to mitigate Issues related to lookup skew?

- A. Create multiple similar products and distribute the skew across those products.
- B. Create a custom object to maintain the relationship between products and customers.
- C. Change the lookup relationship to master-detail relationship.
- D. Select Clear the value of this field option while configuring the lookup relationship.

Answer: A

Explanation:

creating multiple similar products and distributing the skew across those products can be a way to mitigate issues related to lookup skew. The article explains that lookup skew happens when a very large number of records are associated with a single record in the lookup object, and this can cause record locking and performance issues. The article suggests creating multiple copies of the same product record and assigning different child records to each copy, so that the number of child records per parent record is reduced.

NEW QUESTION # 75

Universal Containers (UC) is in the process of migrating legacy inventory data from an enterprise resources planning (ERP) system into Sales Cloud with the following requirements:

Legacy inventory data will be stored in a custom child objects called Inventory_c.

Inventory data should be related to the standard Account object.

The Inventory_c object should Inhent the same sharing rules as the Account object.

Anytime an Account record is deleted in Salesforce, the related Inventory_c record(s) should be deleted as well.

What type of relationship field should a data architect recommend in this scenario?

- A. Lookup relationship fields on Inventory related to Account
- B. Indirect lookup relationship field on Account, related to Inventory_c
- C. Master-detail relationship filed on Account, related to Inventory_c
- D. Master-detail relationship filed on Inventory_c, related to Account

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 76

Based on government regulations, a Salesforce customer plans to implement the following in Salesforce for compliance:

Access to customer information based on record ownership

Ability for customers to request removal of their information from Salesforce Prevent users from accessing Salesforce from outside company network (virtual private network, or VPN) What should a data architect recommend to address these requirements?

- A. Allow users access to Salesforce through a custom web application hosted within VPN.
- B. Implement IP restrictions, sharing settings, and custom Apex to support customer requests.
- C. Contact Salesforce support to restrict access only with VPN and other requirements
- D. Implement Salesforce shield with Event Monitoring to address the requirement.

Answer: B

Explanation:

IP restrictions can be used to prevent users from accessing Salesforce from outside the company network or VPN. According to this article, sharing settings can be used to control access to customer information based on record ownership. According to this article, custom Apex can be used to support customer requests for removal of their information from Salesforce.

NEW QUESTION # 77

Which API should a data architect use if exporting 1 million records from Salesforce?

- A. Bulk API
- B. SOAP API
- C. Streaming API
- D. REST API

Answer: A

Explanation:

Using Bulk API to export 1 million records from Salesforce is the best option. Bulk API is a RESTful API that allows you to perform asynchronous operations on large sets of data. You can use Bulk API to create, update, delete, or query millions of records in batches. Bulk API is optimized for performance and scalability, and it can handle complex data loading scenarios.

NEW QUESTION # 78

Universal Containers is integrating a new Opportunity engagement system with Salesforce. According to their Master Data Management strategy, Salesforce is the system of record for Account, Contact, and Opportunity data. However, there does seem to be valuable Opportunity data in the new system that potentially conflicts with what is stored in Salesforce. What is the recommended course of action to appropriately integrate this new system?

- A. The Opportunity engagement system should become the system of record for Opportunity records.
- B. The MDM strategy defines Salesforce as the system of record, so Salesforce Opportunity values prevail in all conflicts.
- C. Stakeholders should be brought together to discuss the appropriate data strategy moving forward.
- D. A policy should be adopted so that the system whose record was most recently updated should prevail in conflicts.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The recommended course of action to appropriately integrate the new Opportunity engagement system with Salesforce is to bring the stakeholders together to discuss the appropriate data strategy moving forward. This is because there may be valuable data in both systems that need to be reconciled and harmonized, and the Master Data Management (MDM) strategy may need to be revised or updated to accommodate the new system. The other options are not recommended, as they may result in data loss, inconsistency, or duplication
