CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 2 Sample Questions (Q336-Q341):

NEW QUESTION # 336

A home office user wants to ensure a PC is backed up and protected against local natural disasters and hardware failures. Which of the following would meet the user's requirements?

- A. Implementing a grandfather-father-son backup rotation
- B. Automating backups to a local network share
- C. Using an agent-based cloud backup solution
- D. Saving files manually to an external drive

Answer: C

Explanation:

For ensuring data protection against local natural disasters and hardware failures, the best approach is to use an off-site solution that provides redundancy and is resilient to local disruptions.

* Using an agent-based cloud backup solution: This method involves backing up data to a remote cloud server, providing protection against local disasters like floods, fires, or hardware failures since the data is stored off-site and can be accessed from anywhere.

* Implementing a grandfather-father-son backup rotation: While effective for managing local backups, this method typically involves physical media which could still be vulnerable to local disasters.

* Automating backups to a local network share: This keeps the backups within the same physical location, making them susceptible to local disasters.

* Saving files manually to an external drive: This method is prone to human error and doesn't provide automated or off-site protection.

NEW QUESTION # 337

A company wants to remove information from past users' hard drives in order to reuse the hard drives. Which of the following is the MOST secure method?

- A. Using disk-wiping software
- B. Reinstalling Windows
- C. Deleting all files from command-line interface
- D. Performing a quick format

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Using disk-wiping software is the most secure method for removing information from past users' hard drives in order to reuse the hard drives. Disk-wiping software can help to ensure that all data on the hard drive is completely erased and cannot be recovered.

NEW QUESTION # 338

A user receives a notification indicating the data plan on the user's corporate phone has reached its limit. The user has also noted the performance of the phone is abnormally slow. A technician discovers a third-party GPS application was installed on the phone. Which of the following is the MOST likely cause?

- A. The GPS application is conflicting with the built-in GPS.
- B. The GPS application contains malware.
- C. The GPS application is installing software updates.
- D. The GPS application is updating its geospatial map data.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

The GPS application contains malware. The third-party GPS application is likely the cause of the slow performance of the phone. The application may contain malware that is using up system resources and slowing down the phone. The user should uninstall the application and run a malware scan on the phone.

NEW QUESTION # 339

A user wants to acquire antivirus software for a SOHO PC. A technician recommends a licensed software product, but the user does not want to pay for a license. Which of the following license types should the technician recommend?

- A. Corporate
- B. Enterprise
- C. Open-source
- D. Personal

Answer: C

Explanation:

Open-source software is software that has its source code available for anyone to inspect, modify, and distribute. Open-source software is usually free of charge and does not require a license to use. Some examples of open-source antivirus software are ClamAV, Comodo, and Immunity. The other license types are either not free or not suitable for a SOHO PC. Corporate and enterprise licenses are designed for large-scale organizations and networks, and they usually require a subscription fee. Personal licenses are for individual users and may have limited features or support.

NEW QUESTION # 340

A user contacts the help desk to request assistance with a program feature. The user is in a different building but on the same network as the help desk technician. Which of the following should the technician use to assist the user?

- A. SSH
- B. RDP
- C. AAA
- D. VPN

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

RDP stands for Remote Desktop Protocol and it is a protocol that allows a user to remotely access and control another computer over a network. A technician can use RDP to assist a user who is in a different building but on the same network by connecting to the user's computer and viewing their screen, keyboard, and mouse.

AAA, SSH, and VPN are not protocols that can be used to assist a user with a program feature.
