Scrum Professional Scrum Product Owner II Sample Questions (Q73-Q78):

NEW QUESTION # 73

What is the role of the Product Owner in crafting the Sprint Goal?

(choose the best answer)

- A. The Product Owner defines the scope for a Sprint and therefore also the Sprint Goal.
- B. The Product Owner should come to the Sprint Planning with a clearly defined Sprint Goal.
- C. The Product Owner has no role in it. This is the Developers responsibility.
- D. The Product Owner collaborates as a member of the Scrum Team to define a Sprint Goal.
- E. The Product Owner must work with stakeholders to set each Sprint's Goal.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

The Sprint Goal is a summary statement of the Sprint objective, which ideally has a cohesive theme. The Sprint Goal also gives the Scrum Team guidance and flexibility on how to achieve the objective. The Sprint Goal is crafted by the entire Scrum Team during the Sprint Planning, based on the Product Owner's proposal of the most valuable Product Backlog items and the Development Team's forecast of the work that can be done in the Sprint. The Product Owner collaborates with the team to write the Sprint Goal and defines it on the basis of the value being sought. The Product Owner does not define the scope or the solution for the Sprint, but rather the outcome and the benefit. The Product Owner also does not work with stakeholders to set the Sprint Goal, but rather represents their interests and needs. The Product Owner has a role in crafting the Sprint Goal, but not the sole responsibility for it.

NEW QUESTION # 75

You work as a Product Owner for a small company and your Scrum Team employee retention rate has been falling. Data from exit interviews suggests that the Developers are:

- . Frustrated by interruptions and low-value meetings.
- . Feel that their work is not "meaningful."

You need to address this quickly, since the cost to train new Developers is very high in a small organization like yours.

To increase the likelihood of improving the retention rate, what additional measurements should you consider when determining improvements?

(choose the best answer)

- A. The On-Product Index, the ratio of product work to total work.
- B. Employee Net Promoter Scores.
- C. All of the above.
- D. The Innovation Rate, which is the ratio of new work to total work.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To address the issues of interruptions, low-value meetings, and a lack of meaningful work, it is beneficial to consider a holistic approach that includes all the options provided. The Innovation Rate (A) can help understand the balance between new and routine work, the On-Product Index (B) can indicate how much work directly contributes to the product, and Employee Net Promoter Scores © can provide insights into employee satisfaction and loyalty. Together, these measurements can offer a comprehensive view of areas for improvement

NEW QUESTION # 77

Which of the following is true about Scrum?
(choose all that apply)

- A. Scrum is a framework for generating value through adaptive solutions for complex problems.
- B. Scrum is based on empiricism
- C. Each component of Scrum serves a specific purpose and is essential to the successful usage of Scrum for building complex products.
- D. Scrum is a methodology, where you can "pick and choose" which parts of Scrum you think will work for your environment.
- E. Scrum is like traditional processes but with self-management to replace Project Managers.

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

Scrum is a lightweight framework that helps people, teams and organizations generate value through adaptive solutions for complex problems. Scrum consists of three roles (Scrum Master, Product Owner and Developers), five events (Sprint, Sprint Planning, Daily Scrum, Sprint Review and Sprint Retrospective), and three artifacts (Product Backlog, Sprint Backlog and Increment). Each component of Scrum serves a specific purpose and is essential to the successful usage of Scrum. Scrum is not a methodology, where you can "pick and choose" which parts of Scrum you think will work for your environment. Scrum is a whole, and each part of Scrum complements the others. Scrum is based on empiricism, which means that knowledge comes from experience and making decisions based on what is observed. Scrum employs an iterative, incremental approach to optimize predictability and control risk. Scrum is not like traditional processes but with self-management to replace Project Managers. Scrum is a different way of working that requires a shift in mindset and culture. Scrum promotes self-organization, collaboration, transparency, inspection and adaptation.
