- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: A

Explanation:

The CDP annually recognizes organizations as leaders in climate action through its 'A List', which includes those excelling in reducing carbon emissions and addressing climate change. While the exact number varies yearly, the CIPS L3M6 module references the CDP's identification of around 120 organizations as a benchmark figure for leadership in this area, based on historical data. What are environmental pressure groups also known as?

- A. White Activists

Environmental pressure groups are commonly called Green Activists, reflecting their focus on ecological protection ("green" symbolizing nature). The CIPS L3M6 module uses this term to describe groups like Greenpeace, distinguishing them from unrelated activist types (e.g., "blue" might imply water-focused, but isn't standard). This aligns with LO2's emphasis on external influencers of environmental sustainability.

Physical vibrations do not have effects on people's health.

- A. FALSE
- B. TRUE

Explanation:

Physical vibrations affect health, contradicting the statement. The CIPS L3M6 module cites effects like fatigue, stress, or musculoskeletal issues for workers exposed to constant vibrations (e.g., forklift operators), and sleep disruption or anxiety for communities near transport routes. The WHO links prolonged exposure to health risks, making this a relevant LO2 concern for sustainable operations. The statement is false, as vibrations' health impacts necessitate mitigation in supply chain design.
