ISQI CTAL-TAE, also known as the ISTQB Certified Tester Advanced Level, Test Automation Engineering, is an advanced-level certification exam designed for software testers who want to demonstrate their expertise in test automation engineering. ISTQB Certified Tester Advanced Level, Test Automation Engineering certification is suitable for individuals who have already acquired the ISTQB Foundation Level certification and have gained sufficient experience in software testing.

The CTAL-TAE exam is administered by the International Software Quality Institute (ISQI). It consists of 40 multiple-choice questions, which must be answered within a 90-minute time frame. CTAL-TAE exam is available in both paper-based and computer-based formats. Successful candidates will receive the ISQI Certified Tester Advanced Level, Test Automation Engineering certificate, which is recognized globally as a mark of excellence in the field of software testing.

The CTAL-TAE Exam covers various topics such as test automation process, test automation framework design, and implementation, test automation maintenance, and continuous integration. CTAL-TAE exam also evaluates the candidate's knowledge of test automation tools, scripting languages, and test automation metrics. Professionals who pass the CTAL-TAE exam can demonstrate their expertise in automation testing and their ability to design and maintain automated test frameworks.

ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester Advanced Level, Test Automation Engineering Sample Questions (Q65-Q70):

NEW QUESTION # 65

You identified a suitable project to pilot an automation tool and planned and conducted a pilot. The pilot has been successful and tool is being deployed within your organization, with a plan to increase tool use by the one project at a time. During this rollout some test processes will be changed slightly to gain additional benefits from using the tool.

In the pilot project, a small set of manual tests were automated for the first time. You are currently monitoring the test automation efficiency and this reveals that the automation regime for the tests is not yet mature.

Which of the following statements is TRUE?

- A. The target defined for the project was inappropriate, because the automation regime for the automated tests at the end of the pilot is not yet mature.
- B. The approach used for deployed this tool is aligned to the standard success factor for deployment
- C. The test process should be radically changed to gain additional benefits from using the tool.
- D. The pilot project should have been critical so that maximum benefits were delivered

Answer: C
