SolarWinds Hybrid Cloud Observability Network Monitoring Exam Sample Questions (Q86-Q91):

NEW QUESTION # 86

Which two of the following data sources can be used for polling devices in device studio? (Choose two.)

- A. night and day standard deviation of calculated value
- B. predicted value from OID baseline
- C. calculated result from transformation of polled values
- D. polled value by a device on an object ID

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

Device Studio supports the following data sources:

Calculated result from transformation of polled values: You can apply calculations (such as average, sum, transformation) to the raw polled data.

Polled value by a device on an object ID: Device Studio can directly poll an OID from a device and use its value for monitoring.

Night/day standard deviation and predicted/baseline values are not direct data sources in Device Studio.

NEW QUESTION # 87

If an SNMP community string is changed on a device, which two of the following steps are required to re- establish successful polling on the node? (Choose two.)

- A. Restart the SNMP service on the source device.
- B. Update the community string in node properties.
- C. Delete and add the node back into the platform.
- D. Edit the node properties and save the changes.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

When the SNMP community string is changed on a device, SolarWinds recommends:

Edit the node properties and save the changes.

Update the community string in node properties to match the new value on the device.

"To restore polling, edit the node in SolarWinds, update the SNMP community string in the properties, and save the changes. This ensures that SolarWinds can authenticate and resume polling. Deleting and re-adding the node is not necessary, nor is restarting the SNMP service on the device in most cases." References:

NEW QUESTION # 88

Which two of the following tasks must be accomplished to monitor servers and connections in a load- balancing environment? (Choose two.)

- A. add Cisco Nexus device in network device configuration manager
- B. enable CLI polling
- C. add Cisco Nexus device in network health / performance monitoring
- D. enable F5 iControl polling

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

To monitor servers and connections in a load-balancing environment-specifically for F5 BIG-IP load balancers-SolarWinds requires that you:

Enable CLI polling: This is necessary for SolarWinds to collect configuration and health data from network devices.
Enable F5 iControl polling: F5 iControl API allows SolarWinds to collect load balancer details, including virtual servers and pools, for deep monitoring of server and connection health.
Adding Cisco Nexus devices relates to switch monitoring and is not required for F5/BIG-IP load balancer server connection monitoring.
Exact Extract from Official Guide:
"To fully monitor F5 BIG-IP load balancers, enable both SNMP and CLI polling, and configure F5 iControl API credentials for device access and load balancing visibility."

NEW QUESTION # 89

On a single node, one or more interfaces are showing an "unknown" status. What is the best way to resolve the issue?

- A. Delete and re-add the affected interfaces.
- B. Delete and rediscover the node showing affected interfaces.
- C. Change node's polling method to ICMP.
- D. Verify the interfaces are assigned to SolarWinds' native poller.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

If interfaces on a node show an "unknown" status, the recommended solution is to delete and rediscover the node. This ensures all current interface information, OIDs, and properties are correctly detected and polled, resolving mismatch or missing data that can cause an "unknown" status.

Reference:

"If interfaces remain in 'unknown' state, delete and rediscover the node to update interface mappings and ensure proper status polling."
