Exam Sample Questions (Q98-Q103):

NEW QUESTION # 98

According to Pink, which three factors are key motivators for 'knowledge work'?

- A. Autonomy, safety, and self-esteem.
- B. Hygiene factors, autonomy, and self-actualization.
- C. Dissatisfiers, rewards, and safety.
- D. Autonomy, mastery, and purpose.

Answer: D

Explanation:

* Autonomy, Mastery, and Purpose: As outlined by Daniel Pink, these three factors drive motivation in knowledge work, which relies on creativity and engagement. Agile practices support autonomy through self-organizing teams, mastery through continuous learning, and purpose through shared goals.

* Other Options: These reflect traditional or outdated models of motivation and do not align with Pink's framework.

NEW QUESTION # 99

When is a Product Backlog Item considered 'ready' to be brought into a Sprint?

- A. It has been added to the Product Backlog prioritized list
- B. It is selected by Developers during a Sprint Planning event
- C. It is documented as a User Story on a physical card
- D. It is small enough to become 'done' within a given timeframe

Answer: D

Explanation:

In Scrum, a Product Backlog Item (PBI) is considered "ready" when it is sufficiently understood, appropriately sized, and clear enough that the Developers believe they can complete it within a single Sprint. PBIs that meet this threshold are suitable for selection during Sprint Planning because they have enough clarity of value, acceptance criteria, and implementation approach to be forecast as "Done" by the end of the Sprint. Readiness is typically achieved through ongoing Product Backlog refinement, where the Product Owner and Developers collaborate to add detail, order, and size. The key test is not whether an item appears on the backlog, is captured as a user story, or is merely chosen in the meeting; rather, it is whether the item is small and transparent enough to be completed within the Sprint's timebox and to meet the Definition of Done. Therefore, option B best reflects the standard: a PBI is ready when it is small enough-and clear enough-to be completed ("Done") within one Sprint.

NEW QUESTION # 100

When is a Timebox Plan updated?

- A. Each time a Timebox is completed
- B. As needed by the Project Manager
- C. At Timebox Kick-ups
- D. At the Daily Start-ups

Answer: D

Explanation:

A Timebox Plan is updated at the Daily Start-ups. These daily meetings allow the team to review progress, discuss any issues, and make necessary adjustments to the plan. Regular updates ensure that the project stays on track and that any deviations are addressed promptly, facilitating smooth and efficient progress towards the Timebox objectives.
