ASQ Certified Manager of Quality/Organizational Excellence Exam Sample Questions (Q21-Q26):

NEW QUESTION # 21

If an activity time within a critical path is increased, which of the following is most likely to occur?

- A. The project will be delayed.
- B. All activities in the project will be affected.
- C. Additional resources will have to be made available.
- D. Costs will increase.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When an activity time within a critical path increases, it directly impacts the overall project timeline. The critical path represents the longest sequence of dependent activities that determine the project's duration. Any delay in a critical path activity will extend the project completion time. Here's why:

* Critical Path: The critical path consists of activities that must be completed in a specific order to ensure the project finishes on time. These activities have zero slack or float, meaning any delay will affect the project's end date.

* Dependency: Activities on the critical path have dependencies. If one activity takes longer than planned, subsequent activities cannot start until it finishes. This delay ripples through the entire project.

* Project Delay: When an activity's time increases, it pushes the project's finish date forward. Other activities must wait, causing a delay. The critical path determines the project's minimum duration, so any deviation affects the overall timeline.

* Resource Allocation: While additional resources (option B) might help mitigate delays, they won't prevent the project from being delayed. Adding resources can reduce the impact, but it won't eliminate the delay entirely.

* Costs: Although costs may increase due to extended project duration (option C), the primary consequence is the delay itself. The focus is on meeting deadlines rather than cost implications.

* All Activities Affected: While all activities are interconnected, the critical path is most sensitive.

Non-critical activities may have some flexibility, but critical path activities directly impact project completion.

In summary, an increased activity time on the critical path leads to project delays, affecting the overall schedule and potentially increasing costs.
