ISQI ISTQB Foundation Level - Acceptance Testing Sample Questions (Q40-Q45):

NEW QUESTION # 40
Which of the following techniques is most likely applied to ensure the quality of acceptance testing activities?

- A. Checklist-based verification of requirements to ensure their completeness and quality.
- B. Review of the source code to ensure traceability of user stories to system components.
- C. Eye tracking to verify the feasibility of previously defined user acceptance tests.
- D. Verification of the traceability between user stories and test cases to make sure it is up to date.

Answer: D

Which one of the following statements defines beta testing BEST?

- A. Beta testing takes place early in the development process to acquire feedback from the market.
- B. Beta testers discover defects in the product that escaped during the development process.
- C. Beta testing is performed by developers at the customer's location.
- D. During beta testing, genuine users define the acceptance criteria for various realistic configurations.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 42
Given the following attributes:
i.commercializability
ii.functional suitability
iii.viability
iv.reliability
v.security
vi.cognitive ability
vii.maintainability
Which one of the following answers contains quality attributes that are MOST relevant for acceptance testing?

- A. i, ii and vi
- B. ii, v and vii
- C. iii, iv and v
- D. ii, v and vi

Answer: B

Explanation:
Acceptance testing primarily focuses on verifying whether a system meets agreed-upon requirements and satisfies the business and user needs. Quality attributes (also known as non-functional requirements) play a vital role in defining the completeness of the acceptance testing process.
Let's analyze the options:
ii. Functional suitability - directly relates to whether the system provides the correct functions as per business needs. Essential in acceptance testing.
v. Security - ensures that the system is protected against unauthorized access or data breaches. Often critical for business stakeholders.
vii. Maintainability - reflects how easily the system can be modified. Relevant in acceptance if maintainability requirements are part of contractual criteria.
Thus, Option B (ii, v, vii) contains three attributes that are very relevant for acceptance testing.
Other options:
A includes vi (cognitive ability), which is not a standard ISO 25010 quality attribute.
C includes i (commercializability) - not a system quality attribute defined in ISO 25010.
D includes iii (viability) - more of a business or market consideration, not system testability.
B). ii, v and vii

NEW QUESTION # 43
Suppose you are an acceptance tester in a project developing a medical scanner. The scanner is meant to be used in a hospital and should allow the examination of at leaser 50 patients per day. Which one of the following perspectives is MOST affected, if the produce does not meet the specified performance requirements?

- A. Business perspective
- B. Technical perspective
- C. Functional perspective
- D. User perspective

Answer: A

Explanation:
The medical scanner must be able to examine at least 50 patients per day. This requirement directly impacts hospital operations and service efficiency. If the scanner fails to meet performance requirements, such as processing speed or availability, it will affect the hospital's ability to deliver services to patients - impacting schedules, patient flow, and ultimately the business goals of the hospital.
Option C is correct because it reflects the consequences of performance shortfalls from a business outcome perspective: failure to meet this requirement may result in financial loss, compliance issues, or customer dissatisfaction.
Other options:
A (User perspective) is involved, but the impact here is primarily operational/business.
B (Functional perspective) refers to whether the scanner has the correct features, not performance.
D (Technical perspective) is also relevant, but the business impact (e.g., service delivery) takes precedence in this case.

NEW QUESTION # 44
As an acceptance tester, you are stuck between two stakeholders that demand contradicting acceptance criteria Which one of the following actions is MOST promising to resolve the conflict?

- A. Together with the business analyst, you determine which stakeholders is more important to decide between them
- B. After having collected the pros and cons of each solutions, you base your decision on those objective criteria
- C. Instead of discussing conflicting technical solutions, you try to understand the underlying business needs
- D. You organize a meeting of the two stakeholders so that they can solve the conflict personally

Answer: C

Explanation:
When stakeholders provide conflicting acceptance criteria, resolving the conflict effectively requires focusing on the underlying business goals rather than getting stuck in technical or solution-level disagreements.
Option D is correct because it aligns with the core role of a business analyst and an acceptance tester: to understand and validate business needs. By exploring the root business objectives, you can help stakeholders reframe the problem and reach a compromise based on what delivers the most value.
Other options:
A may lead to confrontation and unproductive discussion without proper facilitation.
B is risky - prioritizing stakeholders may escalate conflict or appear biased.
C assumes you can objectively resolve the conflict based only on pros and cons, but without understanding the business context, the decision may not meet stakeholder needs.
D). Instead of discussing conflicting technical solutions, you try to understand the underlying business needs
