Salesforce Sample Questions (Q142-Q147):

NEW QUESTION # 142

カスタム Lightning コンポーネントの一部に、組織内の商談の総数（数百万件単位）が表示されます。Lightning コンポーネントは Apex メソッドを使用して必要なデータを取得します。開発者が Lightning コンポーネントの商談の総数を取得する最適な方法は何でしょうか？

- A. SUM() 商談オブジェクトに対する SOQL 集計クエリ
- B. Opportunity レコードの数をカウントする Apex バッチジョブ
- C. Opportunities レコードの数をカウントする SOQL for ループ
- D. COUNT() 商談オブジェクトに対する SOQL 集計クエリ

Answer: D

Explanation:

When you need to retrieve the total count of records in a large dataset (millions of records), a SOQL aggregate query using COUNT() (Option A) is the most efficient and performant method. Salesforce optimizes aggregate functions at the database level. Unlike a standard query that returns individual records and counts against the "50,000 SOQL rows" limit, a COUNT() query returns a single integer result and counts as only one row toward the governor limits.¹⁷ This allows a developer to count millions of records in a single synchronous transaction without hitting row limits or causing significant CPU time issues. Option D (SOQL for loop) is the worst approach, as it would attempt to load every individual record into memory, hitting the 50,000-row limit almost immediately and likely causing a LimitException or Request Timeout. Option B (Batch Apex) is unnecessary for a simple count and is much slower because it runs asynchronously. Option C (SUM) is used for adding up values in numeric fields, not for counting the number of records. For high-volume record counting, SELECT COUNT(Id) FROM Opportunity is the platform-standard approach to provide data to a Lightning component efficiently.

NEW QUESTION # 144

現在、企業には外部 OMS から注文を手動でアップロードするという、手間のかかるプロセスがあります。注文をリンクするためのIDを取得するには、アカウントをエクスポートする必要があります。このプロセスをより効率的にするには、どの2つの推奨事項が適切でしょうか？

- A. データローダーのアップサートウィザードを使用してデータをインポートします。
- B. ファイル内のデータが注文 ID でソートされていることを確認します。
- C. 注文とアカウントの一意のフィールドを識別し、外部 ID として設定します。
- D. データローダーの挿入ウィザードを使用してデータをインポートします。

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

The current bottleneck is caused by the need to resolve Salesforce Internal IDs ($001...$) for the Account lookup before orders can be imported. This can be completely bypassed by using External IDs (Option D) and the Upsert operation (Option C).

* External IDs: By marking a unique field from the OMS (like OMS_Account_Number__c) as an External ID in Salesforce, the developer creates a "foreign key" that Salesforce understands.

* Upsert Wizard: When using the Data Loader's Upsert wizard, the user is asked which field should be used to match the parent Account. By selecting the OMS_Account_Number__c external ID, the Data Loader allows the user to map the orders directly to accounts using the OMS number found in the CSV file.

Salesforce will automatically find the correct Account ID in the background. This eliminates the "export-and-VLOOKUP" step entirely. Option A (Insert) would still require internal IDs. Option B (sorting) helps with performance in massive loads but doesn't solve the manual ID matching problem. Using Upsert with External IDs is the platform-recommended way to streamline recurring data integrations.
