Question 1: (Single Select)

A company's engineering department is conducting a month-long test on the scalability of an in-house-developed software that requires a cluster of 100 or more servers. Which of the following models is the best to use?

A: PaaS
 B: SaaS
 C: BaaS
 D: IaaS

Correct Answer: D

Explanation:

Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS) is the best model for the scenario described because it provides on-demand access to compute, storage, and networking resources that are ideal for a scalable server cluster. IaaS allows the engineering team to rent infrastructure resources without having to invest in physical hardware, making it perfect for temporary or fluctuating workloads, such as scalability testing.

Key Characteristics of IaaS:

- Full control over the operating systems and applications running on the servers.
- Flexible resource allocation to support high scalability.
- Ideal for custom software testing where specific server configurations may be needed.

Why not the other options?

PaaS (Platform as a Service): While PaaS is excellent for application development and deployment, it abstracts the infrastructure layer, which would limit the engineering team's control over the cluster's configuration.

SaaS (Software as a Service): SaaS delivers fully managed applications, not infrastructure or testing environments. It's irrelevant for this use case.

BaaS (Backend as a Service): BaaS is tailored to mobile or web application backend.
