Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q28-Q33):

NEW QUESTION # 28

Northern Trail Outfitters (NTO) wants to migrate its online shop from a custom ecommerce platform to B2C Commerce. NTO needs to migrate several thousands of customer records profile information, address book). WTO can provide a B2C Commerce feed. It is currently using SHA-256 as an encryption mechanism for the customer passwords.

What approach can the Architect propose?

- A. Do not import customer records and asks customers to create new accounts the first time they try to log in to the B2C Commerce storefront.
- B. Import the customer records, including the hashed password, as B2C Commerce supports SHA-256, and they will be able to login with their existing password.
- C. Import the customer records, with the hashed password as a custom attribute, and during the login compare the entered password with the hashed password and save it in the password field.
- D. Import the customer records, excluding the password field, and B2C Commerce will automatically require a password reset the first time a customer logs in to the storefront.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 29

A Client has automated builds that deploy the code; however, recent builds started failing with compilation issues, which are not reproducible in developer's environment.

What first step needs to be taken to identify and fix the issue?

- A. Recreate the job in the build server to verify compilation issues.
- B. Clean up build server work space and run job again.
- C. Verify the generated JavaScript and CSS for the build.
- D. Verify the modules versions used to generate the code.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When facing build failures that are not reproducible in developers' environments, a common and effective first step is to clean up the build server workspace (Answer A). This action clears any residual files, settings, or data that might be influencing the build process and causing discrepancies between local and server builds. By resetting the workspace to a clean state, it helps ensure that the build process is starting from a consistent base, potentially resolving issues caused by stale data or corrupted build artifacts. This step often resolves hidden configuration or environment-specific issues that are not immediately apparent in the code or module versions.

NEW QUESTION # 30

A company manages its regional operations as separate businesses. The regional sites (Site A and Site B) operate with:

- * Separate realms
- * Different code bases
- * Different category navigation menus
- * Frequent updates on category structure

The requirement from the business is to provide hreflang link tags on category pages pointing to the same category on the other regional site. Example HTML for one of these links as displayed on Site A is:

<link rel="alternate" href="https://www.siteB.com/en_US/womens-new-arrivals" hreflang="en_US" />

Which solution should the Architect choose while keeping performance in mind?

- A. Create a new custom object type Populate the hreflang mapping for each category and locale in this custom object. Use the custom object to display the hreflang link tag.
- B. Create additional locales in all realms create a new custom attribute on the category that is localized. Populate the attribute with the other site URLs and use it to display the hreflang tag.
- C. Create a custom Business Manager module. Ask the business to maintain the hreflang link tags for each regional site in this Business Manager module.
- D. Create a new custom attribute on the Category. Populate the attribute with the other entire site URLs corresponding to locales In JSON Format. Use the attribute to display the hreflang link tag.

Answer: A

Explanation:

For a multi-regional setup with different realms and frequent updates, using a custom object to manage hreflang mappings offers flexibility and scalability. Custom objects can efficiently store URL mappings for each category across different locales, making it easier to manage and update as category structures change. This method allows for centralized control over hreflang mappings and simplifies maintenance compared to other options which might involve more complex integrations or manual updates.

NEW QUESTION # 31

An Architect is documenting the technical design for a single B2C Commerce storefront. The Client has a business requirement to provide pricing that is customized to specific groups:

- * 50 different pricing groups of customers
- * 30 different pricing groups of employees
- * 10 different pricing groups of vendors

Which items should the Architect include in the design in order to set applicable price books based on these requirements? Choose 2 answers

- A. - One campaign and multiple promotions for each customer group
- B. - 50 customer groups for customers
- 30 customer groups for employees
- 10 customer groups for vendors
- C. - One customer group and 30 subgroups for customers
- One customer group and 30 subgroups for employees
- One customer group and 10 subgroups for vendors
- D. - One promotion and 30 campaigns for customers
- One promotion and 10 campaigns for vendors

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 32

Which two activities should an Architect encourage the replication team to follow based on S2C Commerce best practices? Choose 2 answers

- A. Use the undo replication process to roll back to the previous replication if necessary.
- B. Use the undo replication process to roll back code replications only, not data replications.
- C. Replicate the latest data to Production during periods of increased site use to ensure freshness.
- D. Wait 15 minutes after the recreation process completes for the cache to clear automatically.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

* Option A (Use the undo replication process to roll back to the previous replication if necessary):

This best practice ensures that if a replication introduces errors or issues, there is a way to quickly revert to a previous state without impacting the ongoing operations of the commerce site.

* Option C (Use the undo replication process to roll back code replications only, not data replications): Focusing undo operations on code replication rather than data ensures that functional issues caused by code changes can be quickly addressed without affecting the integrity or consistency of the data within the system.

These practices help maintain the stability and reliability of the production environment by providing mechanisms to manage and mitigate risks associated with updates and changes.
