NEW QUESTION # 77

A Development team is not valuing the results of a usability testing session. How should acceptance of the results be increased?

- A. Invite team members to observe usability sessions.
- B. The Development team can perform script testing.
- C. Include links to best practice articles for each finding.
- D. Create a new prototype to demonstrate improvement.

Answer: A

Explanation:

One of the best ways to increase the acceptance of the results of a usability testing session is to invite the development team members to observe the usability sessions. By observing the sessions, the developers can see how the users interact with the product, what difficulties they face, what feedback they provide, and how they react emotionally. This can help the developers to empathize with the users, understand their needs and expectations, and appreciate the value of usability testing. Observing the sessions can also help the developers to identify and prioritize the issues that need to be fixed, and to collaborate with the UX designer on finding the best solutions. NEW QUESTION # 79

How would a UX Designer Differentiate between voice and tone?

- A. Voice reflects the frequency and tone is one's pitch.
- B. Voice reflects the personality and tone is the way one speaks.
- C. Voice reflects the expression and tone is the way one designs.
- D. Voice reflects the character and tone is one's strength.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Voice and tone are two important aspects of UX writing that affect how users perceive and interact with a product. According to the Salesforce User Experience Designer Exam Guide, voice and tone are defined as follows:

Voice reflects the personality of the brand or product. It is consistent and does not change depending on the context or situation.

Voice conveys the values, mission, and identity of the brand or product through the choice of words, phrases, and style of communication.

Tone reflects the way the voice speaks to the users. It is context-specific and can change depending on the user's mood, goal, and situation. Tone conveys the attitude, emotion, and empathy of the voice through the use of punctuation, grammar, and formatting.

For example, Mailchimp is a brand that has a distinctive voice and tone. Their voice is friendly, humorous, and quirky. Their tone varies depending on the user's experience, such as congratulating them for a successful campaign, or apologizing for an error. They use a tone map to guide their writers on how to adjust their tone for different scenarios.

NEW QUESTION # 80

Cloud Kicks wants to represent stages for opportunities within the sales process.

Which Salesforce Lightning Designing System (SLDS) component should be recommended?

- A. Path
- B. Activity Timeline
- C. Progress indicator
- D. Scoped Tabs

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Path component is a Salesforce Lightning Design System (SLDS) component that can be used to represent stages for opportunities within the sales process. The Path component displays the stages as a horizontal bar with icons and labels, and highlights the current stage with a blue background. The Path component also allows users to move opportunities to different stages, view and edit key fields for each stage, and access guidance and tips for each stage. The Path component can be added to any object that has a picklist field with values that represent stages, such as the Stage field on the Opportunity object.^{1,2} Reference:
