APA American Institute of Certified Planners Exam Sample Questions (Q161-Q166):

NEW QUESTION # 161

Which type of analysis uses the average cost method and/or the case study marginal approach?

- A. Fiscal impact
- B. Economic impact
- C. Multi-variate statistical
- D. Development pro-forma

Answer: A

Explanation:

Fiscal impact analysis evaluates a development's financial impact on a municipality, often using the average cost method (assigning average costs per unit, e.g., per resident) or the case study marginal approach (assessing incremental costs based on similar cases). Option A (fiscal impact) matches this description. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline (2022), under "Plan Implementation," states, "Fiscal impact analysis commonly uses the average cost method and case study marginal approach to estimate costs and revenues." Option B (economic impact) focuses on broader economic effects, not municipal finances. Option C (multi-variate statistical) is a statistical method, not specific to cost analysis. Option D (development pro-forma) assesses project profitability, not municipal impact. The CPC Study Manual (2024) confirms, "Fiscal impact analysis uses methods like average cost and case study marginal approaches," supporting option A.

NEW QUESTION # 162

Scenario

You are a planner in a community with a new sign ordinance that prohibits banners from being strung across the road. The ordinance was adopted in response to several unattractive advertising banners that had frequently been strung across local roads and often become entangled with electrical wires. On your way to work one morning, you see that a community group has strung a banner across the main street that advertises an upcoming charity event that will generate thousands of dollars for needy families. You know that the money is greatly needed and that local officials and residents support the event. What might be your first reaction?

Answer:

Explanation:

See the solution below

Explanation

Whatever your sympathies, you do not have the luxury of ignoring the banner. Ignoring the banner because it is for a cause that you personally support and because you personally argue that it is more important for outcomes to be fair than for processes to be fair, is NOT an option because a planner must obey regulations.

NEW QUESTION # 163

What concept is Ebenezer Howard Associated with?

- A. CIP
- B. PUD
- C. City Beautiful
- D. Garden City

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 164

A private sector planner is preparing a site plan. He intends to secure local government approval for his client's development project since it could lead to additional work for him in the subsequent phases of the project.

According to the AICP Code of Ethics:

- A. There is no conflict of interest in this case.
- B. The Code has no provision for conflict of interest.
- C. This constitutes a conflict of interest
- D. There is a conflict of interest only if the planner holds a law degree.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Note that this definitely does not suggest that a private sector planner need not comply with the Code of Ethics. (See introduction to AICP Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct.) All members of the AICP must abide by the provisions of the Code.

NEW QUESTION # 165

The use of two or more maps that are digitally or manually superimposed and registered to a common coordinate system to show the relationships between features that occupy the same geographic space is called:

- A. An overlay.
- B. A buffer.
- C. A merge.
- D. A theme.

Explanation:

Overlay analysis involves superimposing multiple maps, aligned to a common coordinate system, to analyze relationships between geographic features (e.g., land use and flood zones). Option C (an overlay) correctly describes this technique, widely used in GIS and planning. The APA's AICP Certification Exam Content Outline (2022), under "Research and Assessment Methods," defines an overlay as "the process of superimposing two or more maps to analyze spatial relationships between features." Option A (theme) refers to a map layer, not the process. Option B (buffer) is a proximity analysis tool, not superimposition. Option D (merge) combines datasets but doesn't involve spatial superimposition. The CPC Study Manual (2024) states combines datasets but doesn't involve spatial superimposition. The CPC Study Manual (2024) states, "Overlay analysis superimposes maps to show relationships between features in the same geographic space," supporting option C.
