Why do we need to take the PL-900 Exam?

Many companies are facing the challenge of having the IT infrastructure that can help them do their business. The current trend is to use cloud services like SaaS, PaaS, and IaaS. This allows them to save money and focus on improving their core business instead of building complicated infrastructures. Class A servers are critical issues for many business users. In contrast to this, there are other business users who enjoy having their own data centers to complete their business needs. Forums like Certification Questions recommend that businesses need competent IT staff to design and develop their cloud infrastructure.

Businesses are looking for partners who can provide services like cloud consulting, deployment, and support to enable them in making this transition smoothly. To get ready for this, Microsoft has launched the MPT program, which requires MCP certification in order to enter the program. The PL-900 Exam is part of this certification process. Schemas have been met to be a foundation for the MCP. Edge solutions are also provided with the MCP.
