CompTIA DataSys+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q40-Q45):

NEW QUESTION # 40

Which of the following does a database administrator need to know before planning the setup of a new server for a client?

- A. The performance of the server
- B. The transaction logs for the server
- C. The connectivity status of the server
- D. The size and importance of the server

Answer: D

Explanation:

Knowing the size and importance of the server is crucial for proper planning, as it determines the required resources, configurations, and level of redundancy needed to meet the client's needs.

NEW QUESTION # 41

Which of the following concepts applies to situations that require court files to be scanned for permanent reference and original documents be stored for ten years before they can be discarded?

- A. Data retention policies
- B. Data classification
- C. Global regulations
- D. Data loss prevention

Answer: A

Explanation:

The concept that applies to situations that require court files to be scanned for permanent reference and original documents be stored for ten years before they can be discarded is data retention policies. Data retention policies are rules or guidelines that specify how long data should be kept and when it should be deleted or archived. Data retention policies are often based on legal, regulatory, or business requirements, and help organizations manage their data lifecycle, storage, and compliance. The other options are either not related or not specific to this situation.

For example, data loss prevention is a process that aims to prevent data from being leaked, stolen, or corrupted; data classification is a process that assigns labels or categories to data based on its sensitivity, value, or risk; global regulations are laws or standards that apply to data across different countries or regions.

NEW QUESTION # 42

A company's backup plan includes only running full backups for its small database. Which of the following frequencies would be most appropriate in this situation?

- A. Quarterly
- B. Weekly
- C. Daily
- D. Monthly

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 43

A database administrator has been asked to assign a user the ability to view a data set. Which of the following practices best describes this request?

- A. Security audit
C Database audit
- B. Access control
- C. Password policy implementation

Answer: B

Explanation:

The practice that best describes this request is access control. Access control is a process that regulates who can access what data in a system based on predefined rules or policies. Access control helps protect data from unauthorized or inappropriate access or modification by granting or denying permissions or privileges to users or groups based on their roles or identities. By applying access control, the database administrator can assign a user the ability to view a data set without allowing them to change or delete it. The other options are either different practices or not related to this request. For example, security audit is a process that evaluates the security level of a system by identifying vulnerabilities or risks; database audit is a process that monitors and records the activities or events that occur on a database; password policy implementation is a process that defines and enforces rules or standards for creating and managing passwords. Reference: CompTIA DataSys+ Course Outline, Domain 4.0 Data and Database Security, Objective 4.2 Given a scenario, implement security controls for databases.

NEW QUESTION # 44

Which of the following characterizes the disruptive effects of a SQL injection and a denial-of-service attack?

- A. Vulnerabilities
- B. Risks
- C. Impacts
- D. Threats

Answer: C

Explanation:

Impacts describe the actual damage or disruption caused by attacks like SQL injection and denial-of-service, reflecting their effect on systems and data.
